

WE APPEAL TO

all Princetonians who are anxious to share their Holidays with others — with others whose ways of life and unbreathed hopes for the future force them to dwell in the shadows where Christmas can be one more long, gray day.

Because Christmas, particularly in a world shaken by war and fears and besieged by nagging doubts, is a season for inner as well as outer joy, and because all too seldom do those thirsting for happiness and a sense of belonging come to feel that Christmas can also be for them, TOWN TOPICS presents the following carefully documented paragraphs for the entire Princeton community.

There are among us several dozen boys and girls and an ever-growing number of elder citizens who have been struck down as any of us might have been struck down. They range in age from toddlers and seemingly mature 'teen-agers to desperately lonely grandparents and they could be rightfully called Princeton's "perplexed, or forgotten few." While their every-day needs, such as shelter, food and medicines, are met by the established welfare services, what they need — and crave above all else — is the assurance that human beings are important, and never more so than at Christmas.

Most often it is the inching paralysis of worry and loneliness and uncertainty, whether forcing 14-year old David to seek solitary solace in unusual outlets or causing 79-year old Mr. C. to mutter "I might as well be dead," that is hard to define and even more difficult to resolve. The unseen problems of the individual and the complicated relationships between human beings are crucial issues on which lives can be wrecked beyond salvage — unless, somehow or other, they are given the kind of thoughtful assistance and guidance which are fully as important as tinsel or bright lights, or laughter around the dining-room table.

GRIEVING PARENTS

In their mid-50's Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. are gradually learning how to live with two-year old Jackie who for hours on end, day and night, screams at the top of his lungs and refuses even to let himself be held by his parents. This devoted, hard-working couple, frustrated by the bizarre behavior of their son and almost at the breaking-point, turned to the Family Service Agency at the suggestion of a friend.

It came as a staggering blow that Jackie's nerve-grinding screaming is attributable to brain damage. They have come to accept this condition and week-by-week, with the help of skilled advisers, are adjusting to a problem which will shape their lives. A day school is being used to lighten the load for a mother who knows that continual, loving care is sometimes unrewarding.

TO LOOK AHEAD

When Mrs. Paula D., 59, called Family Service her voice was so soft and frightened that the worker could hardly understand the name and address. After much difficulty, it was established that she and her 62-year old husband, who have always been respected, self-supporting members of the community, were too ill to go out and literally had no food in the house. In their cold and isolated home, which they were keeping just warm enough to prevent the pipes from freezing, Mrs. D. explained that almost total blindness makes it impossible for her to work while her husband needed an operation they could not afford.

Emergency food was brought in, welfare funds were made available and Mr. and Mrs. D. were finally persuaded to take advantage of clinics for urgently needed medical help. As the situation improved, the worker learned that Mr. and Mrs. D. have six married children who knew nothing whatsoever of their parents' plight

"I WANT TO LEARN . . .
To Speak English. Suppose you had to sit in classrooms hour after hour, day after day, not understanding a single word the teacher said!"

How would you endure the boredom? How would you feel about your chances of success in America, Land of Opportunity?

Princeton High School has almost 30 boys and girls now being tutored in English. Of these, about 15 are permanent immigrants who will eventually take out citizenship papers.
The rest are chiefly family children, here for a year or two with a professional family.
At John Witherspoon School,
there are about two dozen children to whom English is foreign and strange and of these, five will live here permanently.

Help Me! It's the "permanent" who need help the most.
They have come to Princeton from Italy, Hong Kong, Puerto Rico or France, most of them to join families already established in Princeton. Sending-district town, many of them in their very modest financial circumstances indeed.

Maybe they've had a little schooling in Italy, maybe they haven't been in any school for two or three years. They know no English—no English at all.

Until fall, boys and girls like these were simply carried along in the streets of Princeton school life, although Valley Road has had a program for some years, taught on a volunteer basis by Mrs. Richard Colman.

But the volume and the problem have been growing.
In the fall of 1959, Gerald Breese, speech teacher, began to recruit volunteers to tutor children in English.

This fall, she has 10 volunteers working at John Witherspoon and the high school. She needs more: these children and their tutors can only spare a minimum of two hours a week. Two hours a week, to learn a language you don't know at all!

Need Full-time Teacher
"What the schools really need," Mrs. Breese says emphatically, and all tutors agree, is at least one full-time teacher to work solely with foreign students. These children need to spend half of every day in a special English class. Otherwise—they're dooming them to a much less advantageous economic level than they could attain otherwise."

Volunteers are Mrs. Carl Oberman, Mrs. L. R. Roesel,
Mrs. J. E. Bleimiser, Mrs.
John Helmick, Mrs. Seymour
Adler, Mrs. Joseph Wittenberg,
Mrs. J. C. Long, Mrs. George
Fukui, Mrs. Paul Perry and Mrs. Henry Blumenthal.

The trouble is, the program is almost too late for the youngsters who are in high school. Mrs. Breese points out that, incredible though it may seem, anyone beyond the fifth grade is really past the age for language learning.

For the little ones—the John Witherspoon second grader from Puerto Rico—it's an easy road. But the 21-year-old Italian at the high school is in for rough travel.

"Hello . . . " ("I'm tutoring
an Italian girl," Mrs. Oberman says, "I started out in the manner with 'Hello, how are you?' Now she knows colors, the weather, parts of the body. Her trouble is that she had very little schooling in Italy—she doesn't know grammar in Italian, and that makes it hard in English. We use the oral approach almost entirely."
Here's where the Language Master comes in: the machine that plays a card, just like a tape. Insert a card and somebody speaks to you in English.
Make a card yourself and play
it back.

Night after night, these machines are taken out of Princeton High School and sent to Princeton homes, where parents do not know English. The boy from Hong Kong or from Italy will sit at the kitchen
ing and practicing.

Teach Me! "The eagerness and intensity of these children is unbelievable," Mrs. Ober-man says, and other volunteers say so, too. "They are hungry, genuinely hungry, for anything we can give them.
If I could just learn to speak and write well, one Italian boy said to me, and he said it desperately!"

This boy has real plans for the future. Like most, he has a six or seven-hour after-school job in a Princeton busness establishment. He is ambitious, but realistic—he wants to be a plumber—and he knows he must learn English.

"And I only have him three hours a week," Mrs. Oberman laments.

These youngsters are also,
of course, "culturally retarded."
They didn't eat color turkeys in Nassau Street School in Bergarten or learn about the American flag in class.

LEARNING ENGLISH: These students at Princeton High School use the "Language Master" machine on the table to help them learn English. They are some of the high school boys and girls now being tutored in English by volunteer teachers. Mrs. Carl Oberman (left) is one of the tutors. Students are, (seated) Rocco Tolo from Italy, and (standing) Alfred Greaves, Liberta Kruty Eng, Hong Kong; Flora Sierra, Italy and Laurent Nicolet, Switzerland. More about these young learners in "This Is Princeton."

We Appeal To . . .

and to one of whom they had loaned their life-savings in the hope of saving a grandchild who succumbed to lingering illness.

Deeply upset by the prospect of receiving long-haul help from either the community or their children, Mr. and Mrs. D. reluctantly wrote their sons and daughters, stating that they were planning their older years but avoiding mention of any of their agonizing worries. The children read between the lines and responded magnificently to their father's perceptive counsel. Mr. and Mrs. D. are starting to look ahead.

PSYCHIATRIC HELP

Ten-year-old Susie and her divorced mother, 34, were referred to Family Service by an out-of-town hospital in the hope that the two would accept psychiatric help in the State. The child had come to the hospital's attention through her school where she often complained of dizziness and acute nervousness.

It developed that Mrs. B. felt so weighed down by details and uncertainties that she often could not perform her job as a waitress, or even do basic household tasks. Mrs. B. was eaten from cans and the house was a shambles, for Mrs. B. couldn't seem to determine what needed to be done, or how to get it done. When feeling defeated, Mrs. B. encouraged Susie to take over more and more household responsibilities to the degree that the child, frightened by her mother's behavior, would "feel pain coming on" as she invariably complied with her mother's mounting requests.

Mrs. B. was given an opportunity to express her fear in being alone and having to fend for Susie and herself. She had already proved that a miracle would be hers if she and the child out of the poverty and the chaos she always seemed to create around her. As the case worker gained her confidence, Mrs. B. began to feel less pressed and, consequently, prevailed. Susie less she now sees that a father's symptoms require professional help and has accepted a referral to the Child Guidance Center.

"A NEW HOME"

Agency help must continue for many months for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. and their beguiling year-old daughter who have "set up their home again" following a dismal separation. This early marriage had been an exacting life for the 19-year old father from a home dominated by an abusive alcoholic and for the 18-year old mother from a family in which the parents had been so self-absorbed that she never had any restrictions.

Behind this young couple, who in their teens had learned little about the world around them, was like teaching, finance, home management, baby care and even job-finding. They had a chance to look at what was going on in the world today share the conviction that they understand one another better and that their love can sustain their struggle for happiness.

A SOLUTION

When her six married children found that Mrs. Mary C., a delicate 76, was showing signs of increasing feebleness, and a mild loss of memory, they decided that it would be their responsibility to take her into their homes for a brief period. "In other words, to rotate her through six families in order to provide care far her." However, in each home, her presence meant crowding, discomfort and family tensions. A series of family crises occurred in which Mrs. C., feeling worried and desperately in need of help, asked to leave by one daughter who said that she could no longer cope with her mother's demands. With the consent of all involved, a neighbor made the referral to Family Service.

The worker on the case, watchful for the "dumping syndrome" so common in the case of aging people, recognized Mrs. C.'s case as a variation of this syndrome in that it consisted of "passing the buck" between the children. Wherever she went, Mrs. C. was always the "scapegoat" and was blamed as a source for each family's originally unresolved conflicts. After intensive family-oriented counseling, the worker and Mrs. C. are now happily planning for institutional living, with her children sharing in the cost of her care.

FATHER AND SON

"The boy's custody is awarded to the father." Fortunately for 14-year old Sam his father, a 40-year old laborer, confessed to his employer that he didn't know how to "create a home" for his son. The mother had rejected both father and son, for Sam invariably found himself on the father's side even when his mother was fighting about the father's drinking.

The social worker had to determine the father's strengths and weaknesses. For instance, was he an alcoholic? As the father told his story, it became apparent that he had been a heavy drinker but that his spree had been rooted in his wife's incredible financial demands and in her frequent threats of separation. Now that the worst had passed, and he was alone with Sam he began to find that life could be free of violent quarrels, that he loved his son deeply and was eager to be a father to him.

Family Service will continue to work closely with this devoted pair as the father learns to hold his balance, often so hard for parents of adolescents, between setting restrictions when needed and giving responsibility and its concomitant rewards when earned.

PARTNERSHIP

Miss T. 84, and Miss X. 76, are retired, family-less school teachers who have lived with and for each other for 15 years. They have reached the mid state in their life-long friendship when they must leave their own modest home for Miss X., the owner, is totally immobilized and Miss T., as willing as she is, can no longer handle all of the household chores. At first Miss T. verbally agreed to take on the load of entering a nursing home, demonstrated a deep-seated, almost violent aversion for the proposal! The worker on the case finally ascertained that Miss X. had been on a trip in her early years when a younger sister had died when the family moved to a new home.

With the assurance that they won't be separated and will be physically adjacent in the same institution, Miss T. at long last is accepting realistic plans for day-to-day living with Miss X. — far from the home they love.

"THE LAST STRAW"

Tom, 6, and Jane, 7, "are frequently late for school, are disruptive in the classroom and look badly taken care of physically." This report from a school principal was the last straw for Mrs. John McC. 27, whose husband is an able, long-working graduate student. After three years of living relationships on what she could earn as a part-time secretary, she was crumbling under economic hardship and the pressures of handling a job as well as two active children. She had been thinking of having the youngsters in school would solve some of her problems.

When she had gone along with her husband's yearning for advanced study in engineering after five years of marriage, was Family Service's chief concern, for her disillusioned and husband was breaking down under the pressure. Her resentment that he husband "had a much easier time"

LIBRARY OPENS

Stampede! "I open this library on behalf of the children of Princeton," said Kathy Kane Monday afternoon as she cut the bright red ribbon stretched across the doors of the new Princeton Public Library.

Two minutes after her "Open Sesame!" a giggling and excited herd of young readers burst through the door and stampeded into the main reading room. The library was officially open.

Other dignitaries besides children were present — municipal officials, school officials, library trustees, interested citizens and so on — but Monday was a day for the young.

Just before the 4 p.m. ceremony began, Eliza Crooks and Baylis Stair of Mervin Society, Children of the American Revolution, raised the CARS flag to the top of the library's flag pole, assisted by Borough and Township mayors.

Mrs. E. Baldwin Smith, president of the Board of Trustees of the Princeton Public Library, made a brief salute to Librarian Robert Staples and James T. Rich-

COOPS, WATCH THAT RIBBON! Princeton's 1966 Christmas present was neatly opened Monday when Kathy Kane cut the synchro red ribbon before the doors of the new Princeton Public Library. The waiting horde of young readers is behind Miss Kane, ready to go. (Left to right) Mrs. Theodore Kane, secretary of the library's Board of Trustees and Kathy's mother; Mayor Henry S. mond, vice-president of the Borough, and read a telegram of congratulation from Miss Margaretta Barr, former Librarian. There was a letter of congratulation from Governor Richard Hughes, too. Between the time the library's doors opened at 4:05, and the 9 p.m. closing hour, 1,575 books were checked out. It was like having a first day cover of a new stamp. Somewhere with the time to spare figured it out as five books every second.

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHT?

Maybe. The Valley Road-Harrison Street Intersection near the Princeton Shopping Center may get a traffic light. Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini told Committee Monday night that the Traffic Safety Committee is now making its final report at the intersection. Traffic Safety members here hope Committee will approve the necessary $5,500 in the 1967 budget.

Warning flags will probably be flying by the end of this week in protest skaters at Frank Quinby and his crew substitution of a $5,000 maintenance bond and a $248,518 bond covering all services on the section of the road from the gas pipeline to Cherry Hill Road. Mr. Smith said the road can be completed by October 1, 1967.

The Township can now accept that part of the road up to the pipeline, and will shortly, Mr. Nini said.

VIET NAM VET DIES

In Route 206 Crash, Richard J. Knowles, 27, 252 Hamilton Avenue, a former Marine Lieutenant who had served 18 months in Viet Nam, was killed early Saturday morning when his sports car ran off Route 206 and overturned. He was pronounced dead at Princeton Hospital at 12:30 p.m.

dall, 28, of 5 Princeton Junction, was released from Princeton Hospital after treatment of minor injuries. Unlike Mr. Knowles, who was thrown partially out of the car, Mr. Randall was not. Both were taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Township police said the accident occurred near Hillside Avenue and Knowles' car, police said, plowed through a picket fence before flipping over.

A native Princetonian, Mr. Knowles was employed by the Hurly Construction Co. of New Milford, Conn., and was a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. He was a 1957 graduate of Princeton High School.

After spending a year at Peddie, Mr. Knowles graduated in 1962 from Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., receiving a bachelor's degree. He was discharged early this year from the 2d Marine Battalion, after serving 18 months in Viet Nam.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sara Butlin Knowles, and a sister, Mrs. Alvin Henrickson of Lawrenceville, Ill. Either the late George J. Knowles, was for many years a detective on the Borough police force.

He is also survived by his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Laura R. Seaford of Princeton in an aunt, Mrs. Lloyd Bowers of Groveville, and two uncles, Maj. John Butlin of the N. J. State Police at Groveville, and Richard B. Knowles of Princeton.

A service was held at the technical advice of the New Madison Funeral Home with Dr. Jersey Federation of Planning William L. Tucker, pastor emeritus of St. Andrew's Church, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

HOUSING PROBLEM?

League Discussion Set, Alvin E. Gershen will discuss "Housing Problem" at a public meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters on Monday at 8:15 at the Unitarian Church on Cherry Hill Road.

Mr. Gershen, who is head of Alvin E. Gershen Associates, has worked in planning and development for public and private organizations for the past 17 years. He is president of the New Jersey State Board of Professional Planners has been charged with larcey and assistant director and gradually evaporated; she came to see that her sacrifice was time-limited in that she could look forward to relief with Mr. McC's increased earning power.

Help was given for day-camp for the children during the summer, winter "Y" activities were arranged and school lunches worked out. With economic and emotional tensions eased, and with strong support from Mr. McC, this four-member family will survive.

JANIE

Janie, age 8 — so the worker's notes read — "seems to be home from school a lot. She is shy and acts a bit peculiar. Her family is very poor and her mother doesn't seem to care for her children very well. Many people in the neighborhood feel that this child should be taken out of the home because it seems to be destroying her.

The family minister felt that Janie's parents are basically good people who had never experienced life in a normal home and so could not produce a normal home for their own children. He urged the mother to come to Family Service.

"As Mrs. Z. began talking about her own childhood, it became evident that the minister's suspicions were well founded. It was also apparent that Mrs. Z. cared a great deal for her children but did not the vaguest inkling as to how to discipline or care for them. She knew nothing of community activities and sensed that she could not afford anything that might be available.

"Mrs. Z. knew fond of the case-worker and so was able to learn from her. They spoke of many things. Mrs. Z. confessed her loneliness and inability to cope, yet gradually she began to 'experiment' and meet with some success. She decided that school was important and made every effort to get Janie there each morning — even though this meant for the first time taking time to prepare Janie's clothes the night before. She agreed to have Janie sent to Saturday morning programs at the YWCA and was surprised to find that Janie could make friends easily. This, plus her own experience with the social worker, gave her the courage to join a church group. She is beginning to care more about herself, her home and Janie."

Amount needed: upwards of $2,500 to enable the Family Service Agency and allied community services to extend to these neighbors of ours the thoughtful and highly specialized help which could mean the difference between despair and hope, between apathy and faith in all the things that can restore the hope and understanding which will be the basis for a new life.

"AGAMEMNON is . . .

... the most dramatic and exciting production you are likely to see."

TOWN TOPICS

"... visually powerful . . . a fiery, magnificent production."

COUNTY DEMOCRAT

"A VIEW FROM THE BRIDGE had the audience on the edge of their seats . . . taut, well-paced, well-cast presentation of a powerful drama."

PRINCETON PACKET

"A VIEW FROM THE BRIDGE is one of McCarter's very best efforts of recent seasons."

THE TRENTON TIMES

"McCarter's HAMLET . . . may convince today's young theatergoers that Shakespeare isn't quite as square as they think."

ASBURY PARK PRESS

"The costumes are extravagantly lush, the two-level set dramatic . . . a creditable HAMLET this one."

TRENTON TIMES

"ONCE IN A LIFETIME is 36 years old and fresh as a daisy . . . an evening of exciting theater."

PRINCETON PACKET

"As belittling this kind of show no actor really stands out, it's a nice piece of ensemble acting with minor parts getting the same loving attention as the bigger roles . . . Excavation in its polished zaniness, that's what ONCE IN A LIFETIME at McCarter is."

LOOKING FORWARD.....

TO THE SPRING SERIES, BEGINNING FEB. 3, '67

Five contrasting comedies in a series entitled

A SPECTRUM OF COMEDY

Shakespeare — THE TEMPEST

A glowing fantasy, the poet's lost comedy, set on a romantic and haunted island.

Beckett — WAITING FOR GODOT

Existential comedy, the classic example of the theatre of the absurd.

Goldoni — THE SERVANT OF TWO MASTERS

All the riotous fun of the commedia dell'arte by Italy's greatest comic writer.

Plautus — THE BRAGGART WARRIOR

Traditional farce. Pity he's not alive to collect royalties from his "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

O'Neill — THE EMPEROR JONES

A monumental comedy. The irony of the human condition expressed in surrealist terms.

TRIANGLE: A guy in a tux suit can mean only one thing: a new Triangle show is about to invade McCarter. This year "Sham on Wye?" In this scene, Jay Kerr-Ieffi who is Triangle's president in real life, and Barry Wilbur, who is Triangle's business manager, of all things, try out wiles and wiles on a tuxer who was still refusing at press time, to identify himself.

News Of The THEATRES

TRIANGLE READY

How About You? Can a person dream in living color and stereophonic sound?

That's what Triangle Club is asking in Publicity release No. 2 on its 1967 production "Sham on Wye?"

"Sham" will give four performances in McCarter this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and Saturday at 2:30 matinee.

We open in the college bedroom of one Alfred, plagued by visions of his parents, his college counselor, a friend and a too-persistent girl friend, and from there we go to Alfred's dream.

Songs like "Why Deth it Rains Under my Umbrella" and "Protest Song No. 3" and the like, will enliven the evening, and there will be the classic kick line of chorus "Ye males." (The divisive quotation marks are Triangle's.)

IN RETROSPECT . . .

McCarter. Stung by the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune and the constancy of the proud man who sits in his subscriber's seat and therefore knows how to run the show, McCarter Theatre's short this week takes us to the balance of the fall season.

As usual, audiences were not as critical. One of the Princeton Post's theater guide George Hearn (a lesser Hamlet than Olivier, Gielgud or Burton), they concluded that "Agamemnon" was dull because (1) it was a classic and (2) because the young director tried to make it come alive and they didn't like the way he set about it. They scorned "Once in a Lifetime" as trivial. They liked "A View from the Bridge."

Arthur Lithgow, McCarter's artistic director, is a philosopher by his roots under graduate editorials in the New York Times.

Now Playing at McCarter: "Rigor Mortis" and he hears people who've read under graduate editorials in the New York Times. "Where were all of you at the box-office when that APA company was playing there to empty seats?"

But this has the best fall season McCarter has ever had, financially. (" . . . the current season has not been a great financial success," Mr. Lithgow admits.)

The Tally. Overall attendance was 29% higher than expected, with about $10,000 more coming into the cash box.

Undergraduate attendance was up about 30%, too. There were 1,716 adult subscribers compared to the 14,000 McCarter usually has. All this serves to balance, in Mr. Lithgow's view, the "disappointing" autumn of 1965.

And there was a spectacular rise in high school attendance. McCarter's company beamed 98 performances in seven weeks to 22,973 boys, girls and chaperones, compared to the 18,559 of two years ago.

Mr. Lithgow travels New Jersey, talking to high schools. He writes a special state-wide high school newspaper containing background information on the playwright. He works closely with the Board, an assistant director of curriculum for high schools in the state's Department of Education.

Whither? All this indicates a subtle shift in emphasis. McCarter was designed as a "living library" of the theater for undergraduates of Princeton. The program is in a four-year span, to view a spectrum of the world's theater.

But how now? Mr. Lithgow is still undecided about the four plays given this fall; he and the University's McCarter Committee choose the plays, eventually to bring in high school curriculum.

"Hans" is in "Agamemnon" in many. "A view from the Bridge" is in quite a few. The selection was comically made, as the above box-office figures show.

Also—in reply to a critical letter published early in the season in Town Topics, Mr. Lithgow admits "it is true that we have a new and generally unestablished group of young actors."

He goes on to cite, with pride, the McCarter alumni who are now shining fame: Rosemary Harris, Clarence Felder.

But nobody told the subscribers of the magazine or the undergraduates, for that matter—that McCarter was to be a farm for off-and-on Broadway.

So we have now a living library chosen for New Jersey high school students and played out by young actors still green and learning, and chafing to move on and up.

It's For Students. Adult subscribers and Mr. Lithgow are caught in the middle. Which ever way it goes, it's a student-oriented theatre and the adult subscriber can take it or leave it.

Money is one of the problems. There is enough money now for twice as much rehearsal time as Mr. Lithgow had in the beginning and this is a tremendous advantage. But Mr. Lithgow reminds his audience that the standard percentage of subsidy for an art theatre is one-third of the budget. Of that, another third must be a direct cash underwriting of actual operational loss.

Assuming a $300,000 budget, $100,000 would have to be subsidized and $34,000 of that, in direct cash.

Princeton University has tried to enlist support from local corporations like RCA and American Cranford, but without success. His foundations are reluctant to give grants to a theatre so close to New York.

Mr. Lithgow must look wistfully at the Playhouse in the Park in Cincinnati. Last week, the Playhouse announced plans for a 600-seat, $200,000 theatre. The announcement was full of McCarter nostalgia. Hugh Hardy, who designed the McCarter Festival Stage, is architect. Brooks Jones, a young entrepreneur once associated with McCarter, is founder of the Playhouse. He has a company of 15 Equity actors. His two directors, David Lloyd and Stephen Porter,

Who Decides?

acted and directed at McCarter.

Mr. Jones' audience has grown from 12,000 to 30,000 in five years and his theatre has operated at 90% capacity since 1964. He has a $200,000 Rockefeller Foundation grant to expand his activities.

But Princeton has McCarter, for better and worse. "It's an exciting thing to have a theatre in Princeton, and I would hope for a long subscription list of Princeton names," Mr. Lithgow says. "This community interest is really more important than money."

BRING ON THE MARZIPAN For "Nutsacker," Marzipan and chocolate, candy cane and ginger—all the familiar ingredients of a "Nutsacker" Santa's Christmas dinner as at McCarter when the Tschikovsky ballet is danced for the third consecutive season on the weekend of December 16 and 17.

IT'S NEW To Us

YOUR TURN

I.O. In Good Shape? If you can count, you can learn to run "The Amazing Dr. Nim" in only two minutes, which lets us out of competition altogether.

We were introduced to Dr. Nim at Zinder's, where brain games are the bit of the season. This particular one is a plastic computer game: you play against the Dr. or against another person, either one of whom challenges you to beat him. All this for $2.98.

After an hour or so of Dr. Nim, you can turn for relaxation to Zinder's Think-a-Dot, a game which challenges you to outguess the little machine, and if you've ever tried to outguess a machine, you know who's going to win THIS one.

It's a mere thing — a small, modest square of plastic with dropping marbles inside. Looks rather like a small-town parking meter, in fact. (Ever outguessed one of those?) Well, anyway, Zinder's says it's fun for anybody from the age of three on up. $1.98.

After a couple of hours, if you turn to the Digit-Comp One, an operating digital computer. Yes, you, too, can have fun with a binary computer you can really program. With it you can do a maddening count-down, answer riddles, plan the re-entry of a satellite and even work out a school budget. $5.95 at Zinder's.

At Bamberg's, they've got this game that teaches children to read at the age of two. If he isn't programming that Digit-Comp by the time he's three, he's sub-normal.

You've watched all these handsome teen-agers on television quizzed their voices out at Clock-a-Word. We tried it at Zinder's, and it's good game so long as you can spell. If you can't spell, go program a computer.

Clock-a-Word is like those games you played as a child, when you tried to make as many words as possible out of a given combination of letters. In Clock-a-Word, the letters are presented to you in a jumble, like Scrabble, and you've got to make the longest word possible before someone else thinks of a word before you do. You get one letter wild, which is helpful.

Better Mousetrap? Everybody leaped to the Mousetrap Game a few years ago, and now you have all kinds of Rubie Goldberg games, like Silly Safari (you trap wild animals, using erasable traps) or the Flies Circus with its assorted safety pins, or Flahbait, or Monquillo . . . Zinder's can tell you even more.

At Bamberg's, they like a

I Made It Myself

At Borer's, they call a father who does everything himself "The Dad," and for him the new Black & Decker tools like the 14-piece jig-saw set that cuts everything from one-inch hardwood to curves, spirals and scrolls in metal or plastic. $14.99.

Knitting Shop's needlepoint kits give you lovely handbags to make, or even a tea set! In plenty of time for Christmas. If you want to design your own, the mono-cams are here, and the Knitting Shop lady has made up a sampler of 61 needlepoint sketches so you can see what you want to make.

For ladies of the loom, or youngsters who are deft with their hands, is the Gallery 180's no-nonsense, Revolutionary War soldiers, or what have you, with fine berries and the proper points, mount each figure on a mounting board.

German tree decorations. In incredible variety, at $1.99 to $2.99. Window transparencies, a cool daze in a colored metallic paper and golden beak, a dragon mobile (colored white metal), a star mobile in blue, red and gold, a colorful angel chair. And, to cut and fold, fruit-encrusted cups for the table, or to hang on the wall.

Stitch, stitch, stitch. Knitting machine at Zinder's and Ramberg's knits now per second (really!) up to nine inches wide. Doll clothes, her own scarves or dresses, with combined panels. Patterns are included.

can tilt it to bowl uphill or downhill, sideways, or straight! Your bowling balls are a pair of smooth wooden logs and you spin first the big one and then the small, toward the little wooden pin. This will keep everybody busy Christmas morning while you stuff the goose. $19.98.

For $19.99, you can keep 'em hungry. Zinder's Super Bowl is a kit which includes bowling pins, carom, an obstacle course like table miniature golf and things like automatic egg sticks. You get 66 play pieces and a yard-long pool table.

Grandmother, meanwhile, is waiting her turn at Spinning Wheel by trying out a noddle, a jig-saw from Stuff 'n' Nonsense. You know the subject, but there is no picture to guide you and there are millions of pieces to drive you wild.

Stuff also has those 500-piece wooden puzzles for $6.99 and puzzles with fewer pieces for people who are impatient. This shop also takes friendly pleasure in jig-saw puzzles with a different picture on each side.

But the game that will really work up a Christmas appetite is our old friend Twister, at Zinder's and Nassau Hobby. You put this sheet down on the floor, put both feet in starting position opposite your opponent, and then the referee spins the dial. It's tough to play in narrow skirts.

Now, the family that lives in all this splendor is the most versatile family you ever saw or heard. Baby Nanny goes to sleep, wakes up, smiles, cries and stops crying without being touched at all. She has no batteries, but obviously possesses a superb photo-electric cell where her appendix ought to be.

Goody Two Shoes and Baby First Step walk. Baby Teenie-Lik not only talks, but moves her lips at the same time. Baby Secret moves her lips while she talks in a whisper that sounds rather like laryngitis. Cheerful Terrible has a changing face, raise her arms, and her pot becomes a smile.

Ramberg's and Zinder's will wrap up any or all of these. Ramberg's adds Noddy Nod, the doll with the wig-away hair. Tiny Baby Patta-

Look What Dropped . . .

The thermometer. Also snow. (Or if it hasn't it will.) A most exciting winter Christmas present is Varsity Sport Skis. They offer a variety of skis, eight inches wide and just under four feet long. It has skis on the bottom, like a surfboard, and studs on top to support boots two feet. $9.95.

Varsity also has a teagan-ski. Good for two kids to ride, with a wide track like big water skis. Good skis you don't need much snow to scoot around in, and central New Jersey doesn't always provide constant winters. $10.95.

Westervhane has that brand-new Head 300 ski this year for $149.50. Skis for youngsters start at $25, including the binding. In fact, you can buy skis and have them all mounted before Christmas. Boots and poles are lined up in full supply, ready to zoom. The men's Lacker boot from Austria will be big this Christmas; it's a double-buckle boot for $135. If he breaks a leg, think how impressed the doc- tor will be when he takes it off a $135 boot!

hoistered wing chair, sofas or boudoir chairs for your doll house, at $2 and $3.

Collectors beyond cuddling will want another foreign doll from Stutt's big collection. They are $7 each, collected authentically.

Allen's dolls will not only cuddle, they will agree to go to bath, and you can't say that about just anybody. And more — they can also go into the washing machine, if necessary, of course.

Owners of cuddly washables are probably eligible for Allen's Playkool chair, the one that walks when you push it. It's a chair with a horse's head and a chair behind, and you can sit on the horse's "back" if you get tired practicing walking.

You can also pull or push the "Black Beauty" horse stables at Clayton's. It's from Germany, with wheels concealed inside its hooves.

Playkool also offers a xylophone made like a fire-engine, for some reason we can't quite follow. Makes a splendid noise as it rushes to whatever fire you have in mind. The famous being boot from Playkool has been sent on wheels. Playkool's sewing machine.

at Stutt's. Nonsense and Allen's, is a whirling dervish of a thing: turn the wheel and watch big and little wheels go spinning around as spools revolve in different directions as the bobbin goes up and down and the whole thing clicks away and if you're still on two feet when it's over, give us a call.

Boots and Saddle. And how could we have left the girls without mentioning hooves! There are enough horses at Stutt's Nonsense to hunt every fox in the world.

Nassau Hobby has those staunch percherons from Great Britain in finely sculptured rubber, and hunters and ponies in all breeds. These are small, three-inch fellows.

Clayton's has plenty of horses, too, including a little wood-stable with four steeds ready to go, a cart and hay in the loft and hay in the trough. Good for hitching and unhitching all day long, but the real horsemen will want a grow-up authentic model.

Stuffed toys from Stutt are always at Clayton's and Allen's. You know about that big giraffe at Clayton's. How about the boxer Rudi, a small white llama, or Cuddly Lamby, Coo Pony, Perry Squirrel, with nut in hand and several in cheek!

A prickly wild boar? We know some youngsters like that. Clayton's has a good-sized one with real prickles, small-er prickles on the baby groundhog.

Allen's is so fond of the Steiff turtle that he's been given a place of honor in his window display. Those tiny Steiffs at Allen's are especially appealing for a stocking.

At Clayton's — and Gallery 100, the animals go in two-by-two. The Noah's Ark, of course. Clayton's is more modern in style, but complete, at $9. For $10 at Gallery 100, you get Dharma's Ark and its colorful boatload.

Shernu puppets at Stutt's Nonsense are delightful hard-fellows — a purple cow and a yellow male especially nice friends.

Kersa puppets are familiar favorites from Germany, at both Stutt and Clayton's. Here's the Witch and the Ogre, the Cowboy and the Lion, the Teddy and the flaxen-haired princess.

Hand puppets at Bamberger's are made like Batman. Pterodactyls, beware!

And Glad of It! Now, about those boys. You can start off in slot racing with Nassau Hobby's two cars, hand controllers, track and all the required accessories for a modest sum.

But he's probably started himself, long since. In that case, Nassau Hobby has faster cars and more of them to add to his zoom.

And if he's not quite old enough, Nassau Hobby suggests Motoristic; battery-operated cars on a track, for hands and minds a bit too young for slot-racing.

Remco's Mighty Mike II is a funky five-inch jeep they play with all day long at Zinder's. It's chain driven, with sturdy wheels and — necessary! You can get a trailer, camper, or —

AS ONE MAYOR SAID TO ANOTHER . . . Henry S. Patterson, Mayor of the Borough of Princeton, had a friendly chat with John Lindsay, Mayor of the City of New York, when Mayor Lindsay came to Princeton last week for a distogues with undergraduates.

This Is Princeton
George Washington in Little Brook first grade.

One high school boy with a foreign background lived in Princeton for a job and somebody told him what Thanksgiving was. This makes study of American history, for example, almost impossible.

So the tutor does a double job: she teaches a vocabulary and rudimentary American cultural history simultaneously.

Non-permanent children, mostly with faculty parents, have different needs. They may be in Princeton only for a year, and English may be a third or fourth language for them. One sixth-grader from France is being tutored only in math vocabulary.

Two Finnish youngsters who meet with Mrs. Seymour Adler can rattle off English verb conjugations faster than any American child could, but their conversation is halting.

Mrs. Adler has a Korean boy who asked her to help him with Shakespeare. He has already graduated from a high school in Korea but needs to be strengthened in English before he can go to an American college.

"We all speak so idiomatically," Mrs. Adler smiles. "What these Finnish students and the Korean boy, conversation is the best tool and we talk about everything."

For advanced students, tutors use a special edition of the Readers Digest, a newspaper and booklets containing short stories, with vocabulary words at the end of each.

What does "it doesn't matter" mean? Which do you eat at the end of a meal, "dessert" or "dessert"? What does it mean to be "sound asleep" or to "mind" something?

Mrs. Breese herself has a few students, including one Italian boy in whom she takes particular interest.

"Life is so eager, so persistent."

ent, so ambitious! He has a stock job in a Princeton store after school and he wants to be a clerk. I've showed him how to compose a letter of application for a job and we've gone over that letter, grammar and structure, phrase by phrase, and there is so much more we should do for him!

"Don't forget," Mrs. Breese reminds. "These youngsters are going to become citizens—they are the Americans of tomorrow."

and two counts of forgery. He was committed to the Workhouse in lieu of $1,500 bail $500 on each of the three counts to await action by a jury.

Detective Fred Porter of the Township police reported that another charge of forgery in the Township is pending. He added that his investigation revealed Simmons has also cashed three bogus checks in the Borough.

Simmons is alleged to have stolen a book of bank checks from a Township home where he was employed for a day's work. After he allegedly forged and cashed a check at the bar on Friday, he returned two days later to the same establishment for a drink.

TO DISCUSS COLLEGE

At Public Meeting, The Mercer County Citizens Committee of 1,000 will hold a public meeting to discuss the location of the Community College at 8 p.m. at the Lawrence Township Municipal Building.

General chairman William A. Stuart has appointed municipal chairmen to guide the committee's efforts to establish the college at Assumpcion Park. At their first meeting the chairmen adopted a resolution urging the board of trustees of the college to choose the Assumpcion Park site.

Scheckle who was grubbing around where he had no business being — among the pillars of P. D. Q. Bach. Professor Scheckle says P.D.Q. was a son of Johann Sebastian and considering the head count around the J. C. Bach dinner table, one son more or less could easily have gone unnoticed.

The McCarter balcony is already sold out, by the way, the smart music-lovers have bought seats as far away as possible.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE
The Fortune Cookie (now playing) Walter Matthau gets a chance to show his proficiency as an actor and comedian in his role of shyster lawyer and one man in this Billy Wilder comedy. Jack Lemmon in his usual competent self, but Matthau steals the show. Lemmon is Harry Huhle, CBS cameraman who is always in the right place at the wrong time. Matthau tries to sue CBS-TV, the Cleveland Browns team and the Cleveland Municipal Stadium for $1 million for damage done to Lemmon while telecasting a football game.

Matthau attempts to insure winning his suit by having Lemmon injected with nerve-killing drugs during a Chinese dinner where the only real food is a fortune cookie, which somehow explains the title.

The film is full of Wilder gas and satire. The story itself has its ups and downs. It's fun and neat-fun, with the end result generally good.

GARDEN
"Dialogue (now playing)" A 1953 movie returns for a second viewing. Simone Signoret and Noel Roquefort give excellent performances. The support is ending is a stunner. The movie is based on the novel "Celle Qui N'Est Plus" by Pierre Baudou and Thomas Narcejac. Our adults only, in French, English subtitles.

"CARTEBLANK" OPENS
Intime Production. Yes — he sure to see Theatre Intime's production of Harold Pinter's "The Caretaker," even though it's a cold walk to Vauxley Theatre from what ever parking place outside campus you can find.
For this three-character modern classic, Intime has chosen its three best actors and a first-time director from the University faculty. Almost any of the only four one can find, a side from the inevitable difficulties that face undergraduate portrayals of older men, is a tendency on the part of one actor to rush his lines. Otherwise, all is well.
The play will be given this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30. Admission is $1.

"The Caretaker" is contemporary Brecht, of course, but not Angry Young Man and there are no "Room at the Top" drives against The Establishment. It is more Beckett than anything else, although the valuable, realistic dialogue and the obvious placement of the characters in our own time, bring the play closer to audience experience than Beckett usually does.
The brief opening scene catches audience interest immediately: a single room is before us, filled with an incredible clutter of ramshackle. A young man sits alone for a moment, then rises and goes quietly out the door.
After a short interval, a second young man enters with the old man who is to be the caretaker of the ramshackle house and the action — if one can call it that — begins.

Unanswered Question. Who was the first young man? The question remains tantalizingly unanswered for some time and sustains audience interest during the curious dialogues and monologues that follow.

Long monologues and dialogues alternate during the three acts, with unexpected little eruptions of physical or verbal violence. Freddie O'Brady, the director, has elicited from his talented young actors precisely the right change of pace at precisely the right time. You like TOWN TOPICS, incidentally, to mention it to our advertisers.

THE FORTUNE COOKIE:
Jack Lemmon plays the role of Jack Lemmon's chromium cool wife in the comedy spoof now at the Playhouse and Prince theatres.

time, so that audience attention never flags.
The best monologue, by the way, comes from young Don Anderson, a Princeton senior, his pathetic description of his confinement in an asylum is touching and beautifully executed, particularly effective because it follows so naturally from the characterization Mr. Anderson has built up throughout the play.
Jon Lorrain, a sophomore, succeeds astonishingly well as the disreputable old cockney caretaker. Peter Platen, a junior, needs to slow down a bit as the younger brother, but his portrayal is effective nevertheless.

It's a production done with painstaking and loving care, a genuine pleasure to watch.
— Katharine Brettell

Too warm to skate,
Too cold to swim—
The future sure looks Mighty dim.

It wasn't too warm to skate last Sunday, when a reading of 12 degrees was recorded, but the cold didn't last. If it had, this week's rain would have been snow.

Temperatures will run slightly above normal for the next few days, with rain December does seem a bit indecisive, but has a way to go in which it can make its mind.

Lillian G. Smith, 60; 132 John Street.

A careless driving offense cost Stanford H. Spencer, 23, North Road, $15, while Mrs. Catherine L. Kenfield, 19, Skillman, paid $15 for driving on a heater's permit without the presence of a licensed driver, and David Livingstone,

In criminal court, Terry Lett, 20, RD 4, pleaded guilty to a charge of being a minor in possession of alcohol. He was fined $25.

Three Princeton area drivers have had their licenses suspended by the N. J. Division of Motor Vehicles, each for one month, for speeding in Connecticut. They are Katherine G. Carter, 55, 604 Kingston Road; Robert Bonts, 30, Elm Ridge Road, Pennington; and Robert B. Monahan, 19, 2909 Lawrence Road, Lawrenceville.

George L. Doggett, 22, of Cranbury, and Daniel W. Lyden, 20, of Pennington, were halted by the state under point system. Each lost his license for two months.

MASTER PLAN ADOPTED
On Windsor Bylaws. The West Windsor Planning Board will hold its original master plan alignment of a proposed road to bypass traffic on the western side of Princeton. The board had been considering moving the alignment closer to the Delaware and Harrison Canal.

The proposed loop cuts across Alexander Road, Washington Road and Harrison Street and runs parallel to Route One to West Windsor. The University has expressed its desire to close Washington Road to Faculty Road north into the Borough, but there is little hope that this will be done, according to Township committeeman Eli S. Firth.

The committee's decision was made public at its meeting last week. In other business, the committee tabled an application for subdivision of a 1-acre lot development on Alexander Road and held for further study an application for a minor subdivision of three lots on North Post Road.

BE A SANTA!
In Jaycee Project. The Princeton Jaycees' annual "Letters to Santa Project" will give Princeton area residents an opportunity to play Santa to a child in the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute at Skillman.

The Jaycees have invited children at the institute to write letters to Santa requesting a gift for Christmas. The letters are to be collected and distributed to those who wish to "answer" them.

The substitute Santa purchase the gift requested usually a toy or an article of clothing—wrap it, clearly writing the child's name on the box, and drop it off at the Home Furnishing Shop 41 Witherspoon Street, which is serving as a pick-up point for the gifts. The gifts should be dropped off on or before Monday.

The presents will be distributed at a party at the institute next Thursday, December 15, at 7:15 p.m. All Santas are invited.

Those wishing to answer a letter to Santa should contact Edward J. Edfield, 836-1240 or 452-3870, or Roger L. Campolucci, 924-1488 or 452-3309. Anyone who cannot bring his gift to the Home Furnishing Shop by Monday should contact either Mr. Campolucci or Mr. Edfield immediately.

SANTA TO APPEAR
At Children's Party. Santa Claus will be one of the guests at the Shrine Club's annual Kids Christmas Party on Friday at 7 p.m. at the Shrine clubhouse on River Road. All youngsters from 4 to 10 are invited.

Santa Claus and his helpers will present a Christmas story called "The Wonderful, Marvellous, World of Pretend". Santa will have a gift for everyone. Ice cream, cookies and oranges will be served.

CHRISTMAS FITS SET
At YMCA. The YMCA will mark the beginning of the Christmas season with its annual family "Celebration of Christmas" on Sunday at 3 at the Y center. The public is invited.

The celebration will be marked by the lighting of the Christmas tree. YMCA youth members will read the Christmas story from the Bible, and the Rev. Harry J. Lauer of Trinity Episcopal Church will give a children's Christmas message.

The program will also feature the Princeton Choral Group, directed by J. Beau Lackey. A 30-minute color film, "The Christmas Spirit," will also be shown.

Christmas cookies, hot cider and punch will be served. William Katsberger is in charge of the affair. He is being assisted by William Cherry, Walter Sore, Raymond Mitchell, Joseph McCusker, Sidney Kestel and William Hille.

WYMAN CLUB PARTY SET
To Feature Madrigal Group. The Wyman Club will hold its 1966 Christmas party on Monday.

Send Christmas Greetings to Viet Nam

As it did last December, TOWN TOPICS again takes pleasure in listing the names and addresses of men from the Princeton area who are currently serving with the armed forces in Viet Nam. Half a world away from home, they will welcome cards or letters from everyone who will take a moment to send them a word of greeting at Christmas-time.

It will cost only the price of a domestic airmail stamp eight cents — and the Post Office has announced that it will make every effort to speed delivery. Those who have relatives serving in Viet Nam are welcome to list name, rank, serial number and address in TOWN TOPICS.

He will re-open The Tomb when he is able to find sufficient adult help for the fight. "There has been a marked decrease in interest by seminary students," he said. The student assistants have served in their spare time as volunteers. "We are his ever-sustained funds to pay them."

Absent on leave from First Church during his campaign for Congress, Mr. Chandler says of his return to church duties, "I was appalled to see how much the character of The Tomb had changed. The attitude of the church is sort of 'Who do you think you are?'... The attendance was steady... If anything, increasing... We need better controls."

Bill Knight says of the afternoon sessions of The Tomb that two different types of teenagers come in. From 3 to 4 p.m., the normal, uptown Nassau Street kids who are tion the Church is. Remember the sort of institutions teenagers are. The Church can bend only so far. When it is being permissive as parents are, it communicates to the community that we don't care enough to have rules."

Both the Rev. Mr. Chandler and Mr. Kight believe that the Church has been a service in the teenagers, largely through informal counseling, and through providing an "unstructured, unprogrammed" place to meet. The closing has deeply concerned the Christian Education committee headed by Jack Yost. "I wish," the community would help us wrestle with this problem."

Fund Needs $36,473

The United Fund-Ried Cross campaign has reached 92 percent of its $42,333 goal. With $36,473 needed to achieve the Fund's seventh consecutive victory, chairman Arthur N. Curtis emphasizes that every contribution is vital.

Division totals reported to date are: Research, $136,606; Special Gifts, $121,718; Princeton Mercantile, $8,278; Princeton Professions, $13,665; University, $33,474; Building Trades, $6,101; Education, $9,765; Kingston, $588; Hightstown, $10,111; West Windsor, $476; Rocky Hill, $150; Plainsboro, $437; and Cranbury, $763.

Residents who have not yet contributed are urged to consider the importance of the Fund's community appeal. Contributions should be sent to the United Fund office, Box 201.

Topics Of The Town

Continued from Page 20 and story. She will appear in costume to tell the story of the country and will display examples of Norwegian art and crafts.

The program will be followed by a tea and coffee hour. Refreshments should bring a new get for a child to the meeting. Hostess chairman is Mrs. Gustaf B. Lindquist, and flower chairman is Mrs. Robert S. Holmes.

A & P TO APPEAR

Before Planners. Representatives of the A & P will appear before the Township Planning Board next Monday to explain plans for parking, loading areas and the site around their proposed new store in the Princeton Shopping Center. Although the Planning Board wrote an invitation only to the A & P, it is likely that Burgermeister will send representatives, too, because the A & P's franchise applications must be court order, he considered as one.

ICY SPOTS BLAMED

Nine accidents, a rash of minor skidding accidents—four in the Borough and five in the Township—occurred early Tuesday morning as cars fell victim to icy spots that dotted the roads.

Only one person was injured in the four Borough mishaps, two of which took place on Hodge Road, one on Elm Street and one on Springle at Mercer Mrs. Adeline S. Damiano, 45, on Franklin, bruised both her knees when her car skidded on Hodge near Lafayette.

Sgt. Arthur Gallati reported that her car struck a curb and then skidded across Hodge, coming to rest in a row of hedges. There was no damage to Mrs. Damiano's car, he said.

In the Township, Erich Rudloff, 19, of Trenton, sustained fractured ribs when his car skidded on ice on Springle at Cherry Valley Road. Police said his car struck a guard post on one end of the road crossed over and hit a guard post on the opposite side.

Both children received face lacerations and Mark, because he was in the front seat, was taken to Princeton Hospital for observation.

The local Township mishap took place when a car skidded off Quaker Road near Squaker's Grove at 6:25 in the morning. At 7:00, a car fell Lawrence Road near the Belmont Bridge; another skidded off Bruce's Hill (Route 206) at 7:14 and at 7:45 a car skidded on Lees Valley Road near Hightstown. ### Family Films Supported.

To the Editor of Town Topics: It is heartening to see interest being shown in the Family Movie Committee instituted by Mrs. Clancy. The public has long had indignation on the diet of violence and sex movies we have fed and many of us have certainly long since ceased attending with former frequency. When selfless attention of movies such as Mary Poppins or My Fair Lady have proven that movie people prefer quality productions I can't see why more concentration is not placed in this area.

I have long felt that newspapers, TV and movies really have a greater moral obligation to the public than most media care to meet. And I use the word care because that is what the people who have the final word on what is selected to give the public need to do — CARE. A high percentage of outlook and possible action is developed in many, especially the young, by the brain-washing of drama that say, "This is the way life really is" without a true balance of the less spectacular but honest show behind the show that makes up the majority of what life

REALLY is. Perhaps it is too much of a demand on dramatists to expect them to make ordinary happenings into true entertainment or keep the interest of the audience without shocking language and events. Talent is interesting as it is, I guess, is not very plentiful. But the possibilities do exist and in times past we have had more clean entertainment; and so let's hope that our local movie billings will give a fair share of finer films to choose from to the Princeton community.

Praise for Library Feature.

To the Editor of Town Topics: I wish to thank the person responsible for the November 24th issue of Town Topics in which many ads included such beautiful and meaningful quotations from our literature. Such a lovely way for our business people to commemorate the opening of Princeton's new Public Library. The favorite in our house was "The Prophet."

The Girl Scouts in our area extend a hearty thanks to Mr. Dickinson for the enriching programs he has developed with their interests and badge requirements in mind. The scout leaders feel there is no one better qualified to open the eyes of our young people to the beauty and wonders at our outdoor world.

MRS. MACLEONARD WHITE

I'm Over 21

Years, that is. A lot of the big boys and girls who think they've outgrown toys, find a lot to play with under the Christmas tree.

Skier. Knut's Blue, Red or White Star skis at Weatherman, climb right to the top of the mountain: $219.50. Put THAT in a Christmas stocking. These fireproof-blue beavers are guaranteed to make you a champion — or at least to feel like one. They're rewarding just to look at.

Underwater Photography. Out from under the Christmas tree and into the bath tub. University Store has the first underwater camera for Kodak's Instamatic. The Super 8 Kodak Instamatic movie camera has a special light so you can shoot below in day or night.

Knitting. Ladies who are craftswomen will exclaim over Knitting Shop's afghan kit ($32) with enough heavy-weight French mohair to knit any of the exquisite afghans in the enclosed direction book. Transparent package is splendid, with heavy gold cord handle and top enclosure. Your choice for hers) of more than 40 colors.

Book lovers. Any coffee table will welcome the Sierra Club's conservation books — anything from Hawaii to the last of the redwoods, in the most beautiful productions you could imagine. At Malt's Book Shop.

Travelers. Get quite a kick out of a "bronze glow" with Rover's GE sunlamp of that name. In the lot, you get lamp, holder, eye shield, sun cream and instruction in a case for $16.95. So take it to Florida any now: it may rain.

It's New To Us

ment mixer, hand saw, wrecker, any of which will snap on the back of the new Mighty Mite. A truck and bridges are available, too.

Banham's Fat Cat climbs like a tank. Big Blue is a tractor-trailer with real muscle, and four giant cranes to attach as needed. The Battlemobile car in Banham's is one you can really ride in. You can get a ride, but we know, just the same.

Stuff 'n' Nonsense fights the War of Wusses with British lead soldiers. One small Stuff customer pointed out accurately that Stuff had the Red knights and White knights mixed in her display. He looked Yorkish, but he might have been a Lancaster; in any case, he wasn't telling. Medieval castles come in $30, $17, $10 or $7 sizes and the four towers can be arranged in spite of tight money.

Nassau Hobby has English knights, but cowboys and Indians (made in England, if Trojan warriors, No Trojan horse).

I'm Chief. You mean kids still play Indians? Sure. And at Stuff 'n' Nonsense, they play real Cherokee. A collection of gear made in the south by real live Cherokee Indians includes everything from moccasins to hunting equipment.

Stuff likes the dance bells that fit on legs and wrist. You get a complete instruction booklet—in English, not Cherokee—you can learn the Cherokee rug.

A quiver holds arrows, you hold the spear and the tomahawk. All have been thoughtfully made of rubber to prevent scalping.

Little leather pouches hold arrowheads, jacks, interesting pebbles from the school playground, gum and the like. Cherokee clothing is play or real. For play, Stuff has canvas vests that are useful because they can be worn by almost any size. Popover leather jackets with sleeves make the sweater worn underneath, even warmer on a windy day. Moccasins have hard or soft soles, for hunting or relaxing in the toopce.

Mr. Square. Scientists who don't already know, will be delighted to learn that the Perfect line of chemistry equipment at Nassau Hobby is open for sale, in contrast to Galt, which comes only in sets. Beakers, Petrie dishes, even bottles of chemicals, are available as you need them. The little bottles look like mother's spice rack, but don't sprinkle on the child, dear.

Microscopes at Nassau Hobby go up to 800x. Electronic kits are so versatile you can make your own computer, speaker, amplifier, or whatever. No solder is needed with these kits; you can take a part and put together at will; in fact, you can make 22 different things with a single kit.

At Gallery 100, they provide a set of four science construction kits, allowing you to build your own motor, balancing scale, wind vane or electric bell. This is for ages 8-12 and costs $2.50. Arkitekt Blocks, at Gallery 100, speak for themselves. The design variety is endless. St. Stuff's Lego is a wide-eyed discovery for children's generation. Buy a basic set of 200 pieces for $4.95, then set things moving. Combined with the wheel set, $4.95 — set the horizon's limit.

Reproductions Of Early American Furniture

At Cane Farm, woodworking is a labor of love. You just can't turn out custom furniture on an assembly line basis. Each detailed step is hand-tooled with the techniques of the days gone by. If you think this artistry has passed from the current scene, come visit us and see the fine work we turn out. In our new all-electric showroom, a converted farm building, you can browse among samples of the twenty-five or more different pieces we make. Yes, Virginia, There Is a Toy Shortage

Panicky worries in the papers about a toy shortage sound like something out of Walt Disney, and you can almost see the brave little kiddies holding back their tears as they ask Mommy "Won't Santa come this year?"

Shortage certainly isn't visible on Princeton shelves although the toy-store owners are very much aware of it. Indeed, one owner in business for a long time, sniffs the winds of scarcity many months ago and began buying up large quantities of a particular game which had gone very well in his store.

Another, who owns the kind of store that has regular customers who never grow out of his products, is telling his regulars to shop early, early.

It's easy to raise a cynical eyebrow and to regard all this as a come-on for the gullible shopper. But this isn't the case. For my part, the one who saw it all coming, attributes the shortages in part to the tight money situation: toy manufacturers used to borrow heavily to carry themselves over to January and February when the Christmas money comes in from the retail outlets. They haven't been able to do this. Neither have they been able to borrow money for plant expansion to meet the buying demands of a prosperous public.

Curiously enough, one company with stringent stock lists isn't even American. It's the British Match Box toy car line — these little huskies are in really short supply, just because they're so darned good and there's such heavy demand.

Models are a million and one at Nantux Hobby. You can make your first little plane, you're all small thumbs, you can construct the hand-somest and most complete wooden ship model if you're an elderly 16.

Our favorite? It's Rodin's "Thinker," eight inches tall. Yes — it says on the box "No special talent required," a deft critique of M. Rodin, to say the least, Assemble it and put it next to your "THINK" placard.

They've got you really clipping away. Though, at Gallery 100. Here, with the stone carving, you're got to think, cut your own. Heavy mallets and chisels come in a professional box for $66.50, and that's no toy.

If rack puts you in hook, wood is good only $5.50 for Gallery 100's wood-carving tools.

HANDS AND HEADS

For Hobbyists. Out at Rorer's, of course, they hew and plane and sand everything in sight. With the 24-piece timber sander kit, you can re-finish everything except a grandpa for $24.99.

Rorer's reversible speed reducer — the Supreme Versamite — increases the drill power of a portable drill by seven times for $14.95. And if you're really got a woodworker, get him the shop vacuum at Rorer's — that 12-gallon drum with its five-foot-long hose mounted on a three-wheel dolly. That's more dust than hell saw between now and next Christmas.

Organization, organization! Buy him a 12 or 24-drawer see-through plastic cabinet for keeping the shop neat. (You use it on days-off for needles and threads.)

And speaking of needles... At The Knitting Shop, you can plan for winter cruise and summer vacation by asking for the Reynolds linen kit. It contains three yards of linen for skirt or sheath, and enough "subliminal yarn" for a baby, for cardigan to wear on top. Choice of 18 colors, including rare turquoise and plenty of time to knit during the holidays.

Wool skirt and yarn kits for the serious knitter — make them a welcome Christmas gift. Knitting Shop has them from Munro-sun, P. A. I. C., Denham, Prindle, Andrew Stewart, Reynolds. These wools, varms and fabrics are from Scotland, Ireland and England in all those wonderful British hies shutes.

to use Rorer's Flexible Flyers like Super Sling. If snow falls, there are all those shiny red waders: the Radio Flyer is about as small as they come, and only $3.25. By next year, he'll be grown up enough for the Fall or the American Girl.

How Far Is It From Plainfield?

Doll-house furniture at Stuff? No! Nonsense this year is so lovingly and exquisitely made that you don't need to look at that; you'll start a collection of your own the moment you see it.

You'll recall, of course, that Stuff has carried Strubbe reproductions for some years now, and these authentic and remarkable little pieces are still in the display case. But wait! You see the new line of dolls? These pieces are authentic reproductions made by hand with glass if you please, to hold the bits of wood together. The craftsmen lives in Plainfield and the Stuff lady that he can rush-seat a whole toy chair in the time it takes his driver to get from Plainfield to Princeton.

In the group are a rush-seat chair ($5) about three inches high, painted black and decorated in the authentic Hitchcock manner — painted, not decalé. There's a Boston rocker and a deacon's spindle-back bench, all painted black with flowers.

Then, a group of amber pine pieces, including a ladder-back chair and another Boston rocker. Here's a cobble-stone bench five inches long. Here's a high-backed chair ($8) held together by 20 wooden pegs no larger than pins. A cradle in the center and we've got to count the pegs (although they are visible) because the baby was asleep.

Just smooth your fingers over that lovingly sanded and oiled finish, count the pegs yourself — and start a collection.

You may not bring back photographs of the crater of Copernicus, but if you don't book one of Saturn's rings with the 450-power reflector, then Saturn (used to them out. The 100-power reflector does a fair job on the moon.

SOUND YOUR "A"

Records Are In Tune. Speaking of opera, this isn't much of an open year in records, according to our survey of the University Store. Guess you like the Robert Shaw recording of Handel's "Messiah," or music by the Westminster Choir and Columbus Boychoy, Vaughan Williams' "Hodie" is a Christmas cantata favorite.

And for collectors of fine local music, here's the new recording by the Princeton Chamber Orchestra of the Mozart Violin Concert No. 4 and the Bach Violin Concerto No. 1 with Eric Morini, and with Nicholas Harnanyi conducting. University Store suggests you explore their shelf of hymnals. Every denomination is represented here. We think highlights are the Lorus Gradual, filled with meditation and prayer, and the books of Choral Services.

In another part of the forest, you'll find University Store enthusiastic about "Winchester Cathedral," with a new band that sounds like old records.

A baby sweater, cardigan style, is white wool with flowers at each buttonhole and scattered here and there around the front. It's pale pink, blue or yellow, size 12 months to 3. From 3, there's a wicked bright red orlon acrylic knit sweater.
For a Christmas Cookie, Allen's has an emerald velvet party dress for someone no bigger than a candy cane. It has been trimmed with a rich banding of ecru lace. A similar dress, in navy velvet, has creamy crocheted sleeves. Size 10 at Allen's will wear the whipped-cream dashon crepe in the loveliest blue — not baby blue at all. It has a briefly smocked bodice, full skirt and three-quarter sleeves.

The net cape has been adapted to the young figure — and how useful it would be for a plump one! — by swiveling a white polka-dot net over blue, and banding it with blue satin at round neck and hemline. Sleeves are mere caps.
The youngest member of the family will wear a royal velvet dress, infant size, cut with yoke and very full skirt, lace at the throat and sleeve and sprays of red and cream flowers on the skirt.

Little feet will keep warm in Holi's slippers — and they could be any style — all from the sturdy moosekin straight out of "Bonanza" to the most delicate and furry kitten of a slip-on. Pinks or blues for the girls, tawny tans and browns for the boys.
Clayton's shoes, slipperocks in bright red or blue, and infants' TV booties (we know many an infant who's watched the late, late show after a 2 a.m. bottle).

Later, Later...
The gift certificate idea is always a good one, but usually it's for something you can go right out and buy the day after Christmas.
This year, you can give a certificate (and it's a fancy one, too) for something that can't be bought until early next year.
It's the new Bolex 150 Super 8 movie camera, 8 and 16 certificate are available at the Princeton University Store with delivery promised (that's their word, not ours) for nearly $7.
U-Store describes this camera as sleek, racy, modern and sophisticated. "Why, they're talking about new!"

The yoke — terribly sophisticated. The lining makes it all smooth. A pink or blue daisy print makes a quilted cotton robe gay enough for your year-end.
Girls at Allen's can even wear pierced earrings. Yes — little gold hearties or heart studs, brief loops of gold or pinks... Shoulder bags here are about $2, which ought to let within brother's Christmas price range. A teeny bag is even $1.

Boys themselves are well-served by all those sweaters at Allen's — bulkiest for the bulky, slimmest for the slim. Some sweaters are so bulky you'd think the stitches were under a microscope. Then, those jerseys are so fine... Stay-green cotton shirts in plaids or paisleys are a present for Mother. They go up to size 20 at Allen's.

A red blazer for Christmas morning? Especially if it's worn with a snug black bowtie. And for Christmas Eve, tiger-striped pajamas.
Those tiger-striped pj's go into a tiger head pajama bag. (firmly zipped shut — you know how tigers hang onto what they eat. There's a dog, too, if the tiger is too ferocious.)
Outdoors, he's going to wear Hub's waterproof boot by Goodrich at $9.95. The Durango, thin-soled, fits like a riding boot and has a slim lining. It's $25.

STUFF A STOCKING
Goodies... We're packing everything into Allen's big feet stocking. The Great Big One in white, with the green elf. If you're a traditionalist, you'll want the big red one with the Santa. There are smaller Christmas stockings, too, but for all we've got in mind, out by the big one will do.
Sticking stuffers abound... look at Stuff 'n' Nonsense's finger puppets, the ersatz mouse like animals, the little kitchen utensils for a dollhouse, the bit of petrified wood or the "microfossil" (50c) that's guaranteed to be a microfossil.

For 15c, you can have Stuff's brilliant Japanese lop, and for 40c, a rainbow pot filled with colored water and stones, spin and centrifugal force makes a wild color change.
For 75c, there's a collection of one-inch silver animals, authentic to the last mark of the station, and for 25c, minute wooden dogs.

Four cars in three inches — there's a train for you! It's Stuff's high-speed choo-choo at $17.5. English dolls, each with identical red pinhead nose, are only three inches high. Beefeater, Grenadier, Mousie, Scot, and Santa himself...
The seven dwarfs, right out of a German fairy tale, have been made in Spain in a fashion of the finest nsted. All seven, nested, $5.
Matchbox cars at Nassau Hobby — you never could fill a stocking full enough.

Sporting beanbags from Gallery 100 — when you're bored with tossing them around, you can put them in water and they'll sprout, sprout. Plant a bean-bag for next year!

It may be the

Now is a good time to see the

That was the year they put the balance wheel into a watch. For alto keep a watch ticking.

In 1959, Bulova experts stopped
the tick.

They replaced the gyrations of the old-fashioned balance wheel with the vibration of a tiny tuning fork. Result: a faint hum and the most precise timepiece ever. Accu-

In fact, we guarantee the Accu-impact. Read the details on how scrupulous Mercedes-Benz engineers designed a superbly safe automobile.

MERCEDES-BENZ builds 15 different models, from a $25,582* Timour to a $6,185* sports car to a $4,084* family sedan.

Superb performance is standard on every Mercedes-Benz. For example, the Timour is a 1600 cc. V-8 engine with 90,000 miles. Workdays, the owner drives it to work.

Each is engineered up to performance standards far beyond your normal needs. The objective: to give you maximum control over the car under even the most extreme conditions. The result: Mercedes-Benz cars are admired by professional racing drivers, lauded by safety experts, and respected in 158 countries throughout the world.

Holding the road

Every Mercedes-Benz rides on a fully independent suspension system with heavy-duty shock absorbers, heavy-duty springs, front anti-sway bar and a rear-axle, horizontal compensating spring.

For everyday smooth-road driving, this is the pavement you might suddenly get off the pavement, onto a stretch of potholed back road. You might suddenly enter a sharp bend have to change course while cruising along at

Mercedes-Benz engineers tunk front axle brakes are so useful that you shouldn't have to pay extra for them.

Even the lightest, least expensive Mercedes-Benz uses front disc brakes as standard equipment.

And since axle speed and weight mean extra braking demands, faster and heavier models use 4-wheel disc brakes. The Grand Mercedes limousine uses 4-wheel disc brakes, with two calipers at each front disc.

Technical note: Heat buildup that causes fading in drum brakes doesn't affect discs. Result—you keep stopping, even in repeated panic stops. No pulling, no shuddering. And the threat of brakes "locking up" is vastly reduced.

A tandem master brake cylinder and dual circuit brake lines are all standard equipment. If one system should fail, the other could take over and safely stop the car.

Tires that can take it

Mercedes-Benz does not manufacture tires. But neither do its engineers sluff off the crucial role that tires play in handling, braking and cruising.

Every Mercedes-Benz uses tires designed to perform safely in steady cruising beyond the car's top speed—with a full passenger and trunk load, at normal highway air pressures. Such tires add to the cost of a Mercedes-Benz—and to your sense of security.

Sharp reflexes

Accurate steering is vital for maximum control. In a sudden crisis, you don't have time for endless twirling of the wheel. The car must go instantly where it's pointed.

Every Mercedes-Benz does. Because every Mercedes-Benz uses a self-adjusting, recirculating-ball steering mechanism. Heavy-duty suspension arms and kingpins help maintain alignment. On rough roads, an ingenious shock damper in the steering linkage absorbs jolts before they can shake the steering wheel.

The pace was turbulent, and the competition was fierce. The furies won.

If trouble meets you
Such superb Mercedes-Benz engineering can help you evade trouble in a sudden crisis. But the grim fact remains—accidents do happen. Mercedes-Benz engineers faced this fact, then went to work.

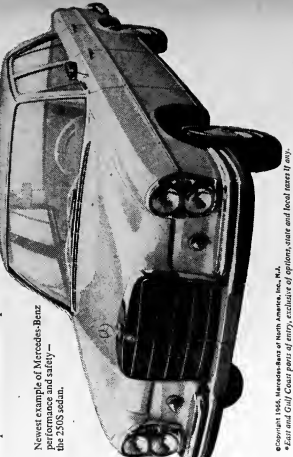

First, they made the car body itself a safety device (patented, 1951). Front and rear sections of this "unit" body are designed to collapse on heavy impact, absorbing shock before it can slam into the passenger compartment.

"Safety cone" lock patented "safety cone" door locks are designed to keep doors shut in collisions from any angle, or in roll-over crashes. Up front, the steering gear is located behind the front suspension and wheel masses.

Styletires take a back seat

A Mercedes-Benz interior is made safe before it's made pretty. For example, the steering wheel hub looks like a doughnut. It is padded, not pointed. The instrument panel is Newest example of Mercedes-Benz performance and safety—the 250S sedan.

*Excludes and Gulf Coast parts of entry, exclusive of options, state and local taxes if any.

padded on top, to protect the head, and underneath, to protect the knees. Beneath this padding—thin-gauge steel, to further absorb heavy impacts.

You'll find thoughtful safety features throughout every Mercedes-Benz. Controls are padded, recessed or mounted to snap off if struck. The rearview mirror springs off if mounting is hit by a force of more than 16 lbs. Seats are rigidly anchored to the floor. Their backs are rolled and padded.

Even the Mercedes-Benz hood ornament is a safety feature. It is spring-mounted to avoid impaling pedestrians.

A parting word

However well engineered it may be, no car can entirely defend against the show-off, the drunkard, or the neurotic bent on self-destruction. Safety depends on you.

For sane drivers, Mercedes-Benz cars can help reduce the hazards of driving—without dulling its pleasures. They are among the world's safest cars, and they are among the world's most responsive. A unique and desirable combination.

OTHER BESIDE OSWALD: John Blackton, in agreeing that there should be a new investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy, says he believes there were others who were involved beside Oswald. "We should try to find out who they were so they can be punished," he adds. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: The findings of the Warren Report are being questioned. In your opinion, should there be a new investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy?

Where Asked: Palmer Square.

Bradley Hanson, 109 Linwood Drive, graduate student, Princeton Seminary: Yes, I think there should, just because there have been so many questions and doubts raised about the Warren Report. I myself don't have any doubts but I feel because so many others do there should be a new investigation.

Peter Jerre, Holder Hall, Princeton University senior: I don't think so. Seems to me there isn't any possibility of finding out at this late date of reaching opinion, clearly, in Life magazine, useful conclusions. The same was that of Oswald. According to my more thorough job when the understanding, the Warren investigation was first undertaken, certainly but it's too late to start all over again.

Joe Falty, John Street, employee Gallup & Robinson: No, I don't think it's necessary. I haven't heard of evidence which seriously contradicts the Warren findings. The Commission may have been guilty of misjudgment for allegedly concealing some information from the public but I don't think any of its information has been contradictory.

Richard Brunetti, Newton, Pa., employee, Princeton Hospital: Yes, I definitely feel there should be a new investigation, especially since Governor McNulty, Mr. Connolly expressed some concern along these lines. He's being actually a victim here isn't any possibility of finding out at this late date of reaching opinion, clearly, in Life magazine, useful conclusions. The same was that of Oswald. According to my more thorough job when the understanding, the Warren Commission failed to interview key witnesses. There was a group of railroaders, seven to be exact, 100 yards from the actual assassination, standing on an overpass. They saw a puff of white smoke by a plowed fence near a wooded area to the left and in front of the car at the same time Kennedy was shot. They reportedly ran over to this spot and found an abundance of cigarette butts and fresh foot marks. The spectator, closest to President Kennedy, aside from the Secret Service men, was not interviewed, based on the failure to interview certain witnesses and as long as there is any doubt at all, I think it should be reopened.

Dick Ford, Moorestown, salesman: I've heard that even some of the members of the Warren Commission didn't agree with the outcome. It would appear that there are too many questions that haven't been answered. Yes, I guess I would be in favor of a new investigation — at least a re-examination of the present evidence AND complete disclosure to everyone. I understand certain evidence has been withheld or destroyed.

Bill Whitton, South Plainfield, University football line coach: Yes, but in a qualified sense. I don't think it should be any kind of political investigation. If they are going to go through with this, then it should be turned over to a selected group to drive into, to determine if any further investigation is warranted. Kennedy's assassination affected everybody; it cut across party lines, which is why I feel there shouldn't be anything political associated with it. A lot of people are jumping in to this and I don't think any true purpose will be served by it.

Kenneth McKinley, Rocky Hill, publisher: Yes, I think there should be. I feel they will be another investigation in 100 years — why not now? They're still angry after John Wilkes Booth. Why not have one every 100 years?

Mrs. Elva Courtney, 2 Morven Place: No, I think they ought to let it die. Why stir it up again. I don't believe in that. It's dead and buried. Let him rest in peace.

James Johnson, Philadelphia, bellman for Nassau Inn: I think so, because nothing conclusive has come out of the first investigation. I feel there are a lot of questions that are unanswered and I believe the public is entitled to know the answers.

Mrs. Harold Sarcel, 1 Bay and Lane, nurse: No, I don't think the whole thing has been completely gone over and investigated, and that's all. After all that's been done, I don't see any point whatsoever in going over it again.

Stephen Bryzel, 70 Galbraith Drive, PHS senior Dentalist: I saw the Alan Burke show the other night when he had Mark Lane on it and it's obvious, after hearing them, that so much has been left out, so much has been covered over. Johnson has pertinent evidence locked up in Washington which is not supposed to be released until the year 2000. The only way we're going to get this released is by pressure from the people. I understand they asked Ruby if there was a conspiracy and he said, "Yes, take me to Washington and I'll tell you about it." They never took him to Washington. I feel it's got to be reopened again!

John Blackton, Trenton, Princeton Shopping Center: I would say yes. Even though it would cause the Kennedy family to feel upset, I still think there should be a new investigation. I believe there were others beside Oswald who were involved and I think every means should be used to try and find out who they were so they can be punished.

FROM OLD CHINA Rubbings from Han Dynasty tombs 300 B.C. to 211 A.D., are part of Gallery's annual "Under 100" Christmas show. Pictures of lively horses, like this one, show the simple scenes of everyday life have been lifted from the old tombs by the rubbing process.

Gallery 100. The annual Christmas "Under 100" exhibition, open daily 9 to 5 (Reviewed below).

ANNUAL "UNDER 100"
At Gallery 100, The Christmas show at Gallery 100, as in past years, a lively pot pourri of print, sculpture, ceramics, jewelry, rubbings, and jewelry. The most interesting single category in an annual collection of art rubbings from Chinese stone pictures, in this year from Han Dynasty, 206 B.C. to 211 A.D. Inasmuch as permission to work on these has been given by the Chinese National Commission to Preserve Art Treasures, these examples are becoming rarer.

Decorating the tombs of the various Han rulers, the stone pictures are filled with historical events and everyday happenings of that era, as well as with contemporary legends and fantasies of the artist.

Marvelously organized in line and space, these original reliefs move in many registers around the funerary caves.

The sections chosen for reproduction are intriguing for their feeling of activity; the chariot drawing an important personage really rolls, the horses prance along at a good clip (in fact, one enthusiastic horse is positively airborne with all four feet in the air).
Moreover, though very little close detail is possible in this type of work, animal or rubbed, still one gets strong impressions of individual, even facial expressions.

Delight and fury, intent,
dignity and whole characters are drawn with large dramatic gestures and clear styliza-tion. There is a fine reading of court and pastoral scenes of the time of Han, simplicity with generous messages of a symbolic nature in the reading of animals, dragons and fish and characters of the Other World. As a description of that period, this is remarkably interesting material. In their own right these excellent rubbings have good decorative and artistic value.

Color Abounds. One cannot pass over lightly all the other exhibits which make this show so colorful and varied.
Outstanding is a new original intaglio print by our old friend Deva Neelker, who is a "regular" at Gallery 100. His "return" brings to one whole wall of the Gallery a touch of style and color and an intensity for which this artist always works.

Stalks by Joyce Carl are decorative combinations of color tones, one in particular is stronger in feeling than most,
a tall foresty scene in strong blues and greens. The starker notes of Mexican Folk Art dominate in a gay life to the show. The expected birds, flowers and flowers are deco-ratively interwoven into a field of color.

Snake Matsubara's woodcuts are noteworthy. With Oriental background and training, it is not surprising to find her art show formality and simplicity, especially in her illustrations.
Her most interesting woodcut seems to be a vital and much freer expression of an old tale called "Inner Strength," a title which fits to a tee. Aeon Neal and Ann Parker, whose New England gravestone rubbings are such a success here, have now sent warm toned rubbings of Pre-Columbian carvings.

Sculpture and Pottery. Emil Millin's sculpture in wood produces a stark piece of two fish and a flock of birds all facing into the wind. Rosemary Taylor's brown pottery men angels and weed girls are a familiar and humorous contribution.

Edward Chandlee incorporates some of the most heavenly blues in his plates and Yoshiko Takeuchi serves ceramics which have old and new features. Each piece of Takeuchi's work has a warm earthy appetite to the eye and the touch.
The exhibits in the Christmas show may change from day to day as they are sold and borne away, but the exhibitors and the overall character of the show does not vary and you are bound to find interesting fare here through December 31.

DESIGNS ON DISPLAY
At McCarter Show, A Princeton Art Association exhibit currently at McCarter, "Design - Princeton, 30-35," the show, which will run through January 15, features a selection of promotional and display materials created for community events by Cindra C.
Huber.

Mrs. Huber's designs have been especially enlarged and reconstructed for the McCar-ter show. The exhibit includes posters, program designs, sets, decorative objects and decorating schemes. One display demonstrates the development of an illustration from the idea stage through rough draft and on to the final overlay printing.

The artist is a teacher of art and art therapy at the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. Beside being a designer, she is a well known portrait painter and has exhibited oil in one-woman shows at the Nassau Club, the Present Day Club and elsewhere.

SPORTS In Princeton

TIGERS SHOW BALANCE
Four in Double Figures Twice. Ability to put four men in double figures in each of the first two games gave early indication of balanced scoring power for the Princeton basketball team. The Tigers rallied over Lafayette, 108 to 59, and had enough left after a hard start to defeat Army at West Point, 67 to 62.

Following Tuesday's game
at Villanova (see page 42), they will entertain Colgate in Dillon Gym Friday night at 8.
A trip to Charlotte to play
Duke is on the schedule next Thursday and the only outstanding of the season here is to give the Tigers a major share of trouble but at Charlotte they will be the underdog against well-regarded Davidson.

Joe Heiser, Ed Hummer and Gary Walters have all been in double figures for the first two games, while John Harlow was in the Lafayette contest and Chris Thorndore led all Princeton scoring with 18 at West Point. This is the sort of balance that last year's team never had, nor did most of the combinations which Bill Bradley paced.

The first two victories were also traceable to high percentage shooting on Princeton's part. Against Lafayette, the Tigers, rocketed in 58% of their field goal attempts while breaking the Dillon Gym one-game record; at West Point, they were 55% and won when four shots were needed to supplement their field goal points by connecting on 84% of their free throws.

The 108 points in the oper-er broke by one the number Princeton had scored against Cornell two years ago, in Bill Bradley's last game here. It was achieved with second and third string players, after the starting quintet had rolled up a 55-30 margin at half time, and 80 points in the first 30 minutes.

Ten Points at the Half. A 14-3 lead in the early-going against Army provided all the emboldened the Tigers needed at West Point. The edicts creaked to within four (27-23) shortly before the half ended but the

visitors took a 33-25 lead to the dressing room and with ten minutes left, were comfortably in front by 54-46.
Army managed to shave that margin as the contest drew to a close, but the last shot that cut the final difference to four points came at the buzzer, the Tigers winning on a court that always proves difficult for the visiting team. Thorndore's 18
were followed by Joe Heiser
with 17, Hummer with 16 and Walters with 10. Heiser was battling 1,000 from the foul line after the first two contests.

Against Lafayette, a young, rebounding team playing 25
openers, away from home in Princeton had everything hit its own way. So one-sided was the contest that George Davidson, coach of the Leopards, announced after the game that the rivalry had come to an end. "We simply can't match the kind of material Princeton has," was his verdict.

Defensive difficulties plagued the Tigers to some extent at West Point, two of the cat-suits combining to hit for 43 of the leopards' points. Army punched Princeton from the floor, 26 field goals to 23, but Louisiana State coach's operatives won with their superior foul shooting. Not until the game was 23 minutes old did they miss from the free

SEX-IT TO PLAY TWICE

Here Saturday and Tuesday, two of New England's invasi-bly good hockey teams will play in Baker Rink during the next week. Boston College facing Coach John Wilson's skaters Saturday at 2:30 and Providence coming here Tuesday for a game at 8 o'clock. The ten minutes left, were comfortably in front by 54-46.

Army managed to shave that
margin as the contest drew to
a close, but the last shot that
cut the final difference to four points came at the buzzer, the Tigers winning on a court that always proves difficult for the visiting team. Thorndore's 18
were followed by Joe Heiser
with 17, Hummer with 16 and Walters with 10. Heiser was battling 1,000 from the foul line after the first two contests.

Harry-Rulon Miller, who captained the Tigers' '57 team and now coaches the Princeton Day School, was the villain in the piece. He produced the victories' first two goals, all they needed when goalie Dave Ferguson and All-American defenseman Bob Guadagni, both of Brown, made it almost impossible for the home team to score.

Rulon-Miller's first goal was hanged into an empty cage just 31 seconds after play began. Goalie Reppan Kerney blocked the shot but couldn't find the rebound and no defenseman was on hand to pick it up for him. The Tigers drew even ten minutes later when junior Tim Rawls stuck into the cords from short range, but that was the extent of their offense for the day.

Rulon-Miller's deft angle shot from well out in the right side eluded Kerney at 6:23 of the second period, forcing

Princeton to play catch-up ball the rest of the afternoon. The Nicks got an insurance goal toward the end of the third round, and controlled the puck well enough so that Wilson never could pull his goalie for a shoo-in effort.
Johnny and Steve Cook skated on a line for the Nicks, and may get brother Pete back next month after his broken wrist heals. In addition to Harry Rulon-Miller, his younger brother Pat and Mike Erdman are carried on the Nicks' roster. All learned their early hockey at Princeton Country Day.

EASY VICTORIES WON
By Swimmers, Wrestlers.
One-sided triumphs were recorded by Princeton's swimming and wrestling teams Saturday as they opened their winter seasons.
Coach Bob Clotworthy's swimmers came home from Providence with a 69-26 victory over Brown and four pool records. Coach John Johnston's maintain turned back Colgate, 24-12, in Dillon Gym, losing only two matches. The visitors managed to tie the other pair, but Princeton was the remaining six.

PHS VS. EWING QUINTEZ
At Home Friday. The Princeton High School basketball team, loser in its opener to Asbury Park, 39-35, will play host Friday to Ewing. Loss in its opener to Notre Dame, 61-51. The 8 p.m. varsity contest will be preceded by a 6:30 jayvee game.

On Tuesday afternoon, the Little Tigers will take to the road for the first time this season, opposing Franklin Township at 3:45.

For the opener, coach Tony Borok assembled a starting five consisting of Tom Wood, 6-3 captain and center; forwards Jeff Bullock and Rich Valt and guards Tom Yoder and Marty Hines. They grabbed an early first-quarter lead against Asbury Park, but then spent a long frustrating evening trying to catch the Blue Herons, who moved in front and were able to cling to a small margin.
Bullock was the most accurate of a generally inaccurate PHS team, hitting for seven two-pointers and two free throws for 16 points, high for the Blue and White. Actually, the Little Tigers outscored Asbury from the first, 22 to 20, but they lost on the foul line where their accuracy fell below 50 percent.

Wood ended with 11, Hines with 10, Yoder, 8, and Valt, 6. The only other Little Tiger to score was the sixth man, Joe Kuley. He added 4.

The first period ended in a 15-13 deadlock. By the half, Asbury had a narrow two-point lead which it increased to five at the end of the third quarters. Down by the score, the best PHS could do in the final eight minutes of play was to outscore Asbury, a team it had defeated three out of three last year, by a point.

At 6:5, Wood was a couple of inches taller than anyone else on the court. And, although he led both squads with 17 rebounds, he and his teammates did not dominate the boards as well as they might have against their smaller visitors.

GOALIE SPOT SHARED
By Hastings, DeGrazia.
Princeton High School's hockey team was scheduled to begin its first season as an officially recognized sport against Lawrenceville Wednesday afternoon.

The goalie position, mentioned as a problem spot by Coach Pete Clark, was slated to be shared by Clark Hastings and Paul DeGrazia. Both are vying for the position, and Cook reported that they will

After the first (and only) week of practice, Cook reported the team was working hard. "We have more boys with ability," he said. "Paul Rice, our captain, could play on any high school team. He is by far our best player."

Rice is one of the original boys who joined the PHS Hockey Club, first formed three years ago. He is the product of a pee-wee league in Lake Forest, Ill.
VARSITY "P" AWARDED

BASKETBALL UNDER WAY. League Play Begins. The six teams of the YMCA Recreation and Industrial Basketball League began play this week at the high school. Games are scheduled for 10 Tuesdays between 7 and 10 in the boys' gym.

League play has been organized as a triple round-robin. Each team will play all the others three times. The name of the sponsor of the winning team will be placed on a permanent rotating trophy, and the team champions will be given individual awards at the end of the season.

Teams represented and their sponsors are Princeton Hospital, Al Bittard; RCA Laboratories, Joel Gudimowich; American Cynamid, Peter Norwin; Van Nestrom, James Gaul; FTS, Gary Rankin; and Gashin Tull, Bob Amyth.

HUN AT BRYN ATHYN

In Saturday Cross Openings. The Hun School basketball team will open its 1966-67 season Saturday in Pennsylvania at Bryn Athyn School. The game embraces the entire '66 portion of the schedule as Hun will then break for the holidays and not resume until the first weekend in January.

Only two varsity performers return to coach Dave Leete. They are this year's co-captains, Pete Bruveman and Mark Short. Don Silverman, a sophomore, is up from the juvvy squad.

Two promising new faces, according to Leete, are Jim Humberly and freshman Mike McGuire. A graduate of St. Paul's School in Princeton, McGuire broke all school records last year as a senior, winning 935 points to average above 25 a game.

The blizest concern for Leete at the start is a lack of height. Only two on the squad, an over six feet, Silverman and Humberly, both 6-5. An over soft soil for Hun (8-8 a year ago) is a lack of depth.

NEW GRID HONORS

For Butterfloss, Wood, Princeton High School's Tom Butterfloss and Tom Wood have taken another step up the football ladder. In addition to the All-Mercer County team they have been named to the more prestigious All-Delaware Valley first team offense.

Butterfloss, 6-3, 229 pounds.

was one of two juniors chosen for the offensive unit. He is a tackle. Wood is 6-5, 203 pounds and an end.

The only other player from Mercer County to be named was Sam Steinert, a guard on Strimert High School's undefeated team. His teammate, Gary Huhman, joined him as the only Mercer County player selected for the first team defensive unit.

HUN PLACES TWO

On Penn-Jersey Team. Two players from the Hun football team have been named to the Penn-Jersey Conference football team which is picked by the league coaches.

William Black was named center on the offensive team and Mike Otis, an end on the defensive unit. Both are seniors. Black is 210, 6-5, and Otis, 6-1, 190.

OPENER SATURDAY

For PHS Wrestlers. After a year on a juvvy level, the Princeton High School wrestling team will inaugurate its first season as a varsity sport on Saturday at 6:30 against visiting Hunterdon Central.

For coach Tom Murray and the Redding Little Tigers, the competition couldn't be tougher. Hunterdon Central along with North Hunterdon are the class of the state in wrestling. The latter will be Princeton High's second opponent next Friday.

Hunterdon Central, according

Wilkinson, 115-pounder, is perhaps the squad's most outstanding wrestler. Calling Hank "extremely dedicated," Murray reported that he has been working out with members of the university team.

Other veterans are Stu Bell, 137-lb. Steve Fox, 106-lb. Fred Fox, 147-lb. and Craig Donaldson, heavyweight. Among the newcomers are Ken Grob and Hutton Webber, former trainees on the football squad. Both will compete in the 176-lb. division. "Webber," said Murray, "is very strong and has good balance. Both look very good so far."

Two more ex-football players are Rick Sisco, who will challenge Donaldson in the heavyweight class, and Nick Arero, a sophomore. Of Arero, Murray said he was quick and real strong and would probably take over one of the varsity spots. Arero is a sophomore.

 As Three Win Medals, Three members of the Princeton YMCA Flying Fish won two medals each as the Fish began this swimming season at the Trenton Central YMCA. David Jannet Boys' Invitational Swim Meet at Trenton High School.

Brought home honors for Trenton were Chuck Hector, Billy Cook and Andy Bolster. Hector earned his medals by smacking two meet records to place first in the 10 and under freestyle and breaststroke events. His times were 20.9 seconds for the freestyle and 36.1 for the breaststroke. Cook placed second in the 10-and-under butterfly event with a time of 34.0 and third in the freestyle with 31.3. Bolster took second place in the breaststroke with a time of 35.2 and sixth in the freestyle with 32.2.

BOWLING NOTES
 Blue Angels Underway. The Blue Angels Hi-Y League, comprised of high school boys, began its season last week at the Princeton Recreation Lakes with the Hi-Los and Tups tied for first with four points each. Exports and King Pins are the other members in the four-pointers.

Gordon Griffin Jr. started impressively with games of 206-202 on his way to a 591 series. Ken Grob had 187, Rich Volk, 186, and Tom Wood, 182. Bob McGinnis, rolling in the

Beicks Without Straw

A year ago, Princeton finished second in Ivy League football and placed eight men on the all-star team chosen by the coaches. This year, the Tigers tied for first with Dartmouth and Harvard but managed to place only two men in the All-Ivy balloting. Captain Wake Krennbo was named at end and Doug James at halfback on the defensive platoon. In contrast, seven Dartmouth players and six from Harvard were chosen.

Honorable mention on the offensive platoon went to Pete Zeltoff, end; Bob Ehret, center; John Bowers, halfback; and Ted Garcia, placekicker. On defense, Princetonians elected were Captain-Clay Lee Hiltner, guard; Ron Grossman, linebacker; and Hayward Gusep, halfback.

Tri-Country Firemen's League fashioned the highest single game last week, a 242 to which he added 174-193 for 509. Wally Brown was slightly more consistent in rolling 208-225, 625, Gib Ireland had 217-192, Bill Davill, 212-214, and Al Kren, 203-211. Elmer Melflugh had a single game score of 223. Princeton No. 1 leads the standings, 44 to 42 points over Lawrenceville and Kingston, tied for second. Mercer No. 2 (40) is third.

Princeton Del has regained the lead in the B League with 46 points, two more than Princeton Inn, Leo's Gulf and Bolestrieri Construction, which are all equal with 44 Teylano bar 42.

In all 22 games over the 200 level were recorded with Bob Sculacetti's 239 leading the list. Others were Bill Whalley, 231; Sam Nini, 223; Reno Pellegrino, 222; Bill Murphy, 220. Sam Laid had 213-232; Frank Cawley, 208-215; John Bales-triel, 189-223-203-215, and Jack Lacey, 212-172-222-206. Vic Wyszynski's 225, Ernie Hunt's 225, and Mike Basile's 223 were the top individual games rolled in the Three-Man Classic division. Bill Flock almost reached 600, combining a pair of 200s with a 192, as did Tom Pawlicki, 196-204-59. Colonial Restaurant preserved its grip on first place with 27 wins. Fure Hardware, 23 wins, and Princeton Construction and Decker's Dairy, 21 and 20, trail.

In the Nassau League, Cifelli Electric and Grov Lumber are neck and neck with Cifelli currently enjoying a one-point lead, 45 to 47. First Aid is third, two above Tiger Garage and Princeton Artisan which are tied for fourth with 42.

Cifelli enjoyed the best night, working the pins for a 222-189-217-638. Sal Demerzio had 212, Vince Tuttle, 213; and Dave Burroughs, 210. A final 211 enabled Dan Hanley to post a 385 series.

Top scores in the Business Women's League were recorded by Sarah Hunneycutt, 212-174-544; Julia Ball, 200-180-533; Helen Tamasi, 189-165-129 and Alice Franzetta, 185-185-200. Barbara Ellis rolled 174-172 and picked up the 5-7 split in the process. Chasing Irene's Day Nursery is second with 44.

TIGERS WIN A BIG ONE
On Villanova's court, The last year Villanova had a basketball game in its Main Line Fieldhouse was on December 1962, when Bill Bradley led Princeton to a 68-53 triumph at a sophomore. The Wildcats lost Tuesday night, 45-37, to a Tiger quintet whose play was dominated by Seneca Chris Thumford, and the word went out that the Orange and Black was ready to play basketball again with the big boys.

Princeton won with a fascinating display of old-fashioned basketball, holding the highly-regarded Wildcats to 14 field goals—dominating the action during the second half. Over an eight-minute spread which began with the victory on the thin edge of a 31-30 margin the Tigers' fine man-to-man game limited Villanova to exactly two points.

It was Thumford's all-around exhibition of shooting, rebounding and defense that made the upset possible. After missing his first foul try, he converted eight straight with pressure at the boiling point and added three field goals—his 14 points representing 40% of the losers' entire output.

Throughout the decisive second half—it was 26 for 30 at the intermission—Thumford virtually owned the home team's backboard as he deftly rebounded repeatedly limited Villanova to a single shot. Frustrated Wildcat fans, enraged at two charges of foul-tending and a technical foul, littered the floor with paper during the latter stages of the defeat.

John Harlow and Ed Hummer, held scoreless in the first 20 minutes, combined for 13 during the second half. Joe Heiser became the only Princeton player to hit double figures in the first three games with 10, while Gary Walters had eight and launched several foul breaks in the final minutes that did much to break the contest open.

PUS FIVE WINS FIRST
46-33 Over Franklin, Coach Tony Borzak's Little Tigers won their first game in two starts Tuesday afternoon, as they defeated visiting Franklin Township 46-33, 46-20, 46-20. Only briefly, however, during the 32 minutes of play led the action on the court resolutely basketball. PUS was wholly unimpressive, and Franklin, brief, with first-half games, even more so.

The Warriors had a partial excuse, however. Aside from their 6-3 captain, Wayne Hill, they had no height at all, and Hill fouled out with 6:18 of the final eight minutes in to when his team was behind by 10, 39-29, and still not out of it.

With no sharpshooters from outside to nullify Princeton's control of the boards, the most entirely dominated by 6-5 Tommy Wood—Franklin had no offense at all. Only once did it more more than eight points in a period.

That the Little Tigers didn't run Franklin right out of the gymnasium in the first few minutes and then let the reserves take over is indicative of how far they still have to go if they are going to win games. Peter Budd, Dick Thompson, John Budd and Jack Fox at Trenton, Hamilton and Calhoun.

There was not enough working the ball and driving in for baskets and too many poor passes and mental errors. The team lacks leadership on the court.

The five who scored all of Princeton's points played viciously every minute of the contest. Rich Vols led with 14, five of his coming in the first quarter when PUS killed on 9 and trailed Franklin, 8-7. Jeff Bullock's layup which ended the scoring enabled him to finish with 11. He is the lone player to score in double figures in Princeton's first two contests. Marty Hines had 9, followed by Wood's 8, and Tom Yoder's 4.

BROADWAY HELD GUILTY
Of manslaughter, Irvin H. Broadway of 37 Phillips Avenue, Lawrenceville, a former Princeton resident, was found guilty of manslaughter in the killing of his brother Herman, formerly of 12 Birch Avenue, by a Mercer County Jury Friday in Trenton.

Irvin Broadway, 28, had been indicted for the murder of his 33-year old brother, who died from a shotgun blast during an argument at Irvin Broadway's home last March 5. The jury took four hours to return the reduced verdict of guilty of manslaughter.

Broadway faces as much as 10 years in prison and a $1,000 fine under the manslaughter conviction. He will be sentenced at a later session.

Broadway's court-appointed lawyer, David Schroll, contended at the trial that his client had shot in self-defense when attacked with a butcher knife by his brother. First assistant County Prosecutor John J. Barry discounted the contention and claimed that the younger Broadway had killed his brother without "justification".

The shooting occurred at 2:25 a.m. outside the Lawrenceville home. The brothers had met earlier at a Trenton bar, and Herman Broadway had offered to drive his brother home. The defendant claimed that he had ordered his brother to leave his house because his brother was drunk and abusive.

Broadway explained that he took his shotgun to force his brother to leave. He said that he followed his brother out to make sure that he was going away. When he shot his brother, the defendant explained, his brother was laughing at him with a butcher knife.

Prosecutor Barry emphasized that, although the killing took place outside in the rain, and there was a good deal of blood around the body, the knife was found inside the house and was completely clean. Broadway said that he picked up the knife and carried it back to the house after the shooting.

Mr. Barry also pointed out that Herman Broadway's car lights were on and that the motor was running and in gear when the police arrived. He contended that the victim was in the car and trying to leave when he was shot. Irvin Broadway testified that his brother was standing outside the car when he was shot.

Mr. Schroll strongly emphasized in his case that the defendant had telephoned the police himself, admitted that he had shot his brother, and had requested an ambulance.

WE DO!

Who will be next?

As the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad holds its grim winter drill, preparing themselves for the all-out alarm, "Kids though the ice!" we need to prepare ourselves as well.

If you fall into icy water, you go into a state of physical and mental shock. Frigid water saps your body heat, leaving you exhausted. In sub-freezing water, a person may collapse and drown within 15 minutes.

The deadliest danger is panic. Imagine yourself threatened with numbness, borne down by the weight of heavy clothing, struggling desperately to hold onto ice that crumbles away in your hands. Unless you know to extend your arms forward over the unbroken ice and kick your legs, bringing yourself into a swimming position, by kicking and lunging to work your way onto firm ice, you will be paralyzed with fear.

Many would-be rescuers become as panicky as the victim and try heroic but useless measures that all too often result in their own deaths. Tragically, many of these ice drownings involve children.

Drill your youngsters. Show them where the safe-ice flags fly, where it is safe to skate, where the red rescue poles are located. Check on them, to see if they understand and remember.

Take care. We care!

ICE SKATING

ICE BREAKTHROUGH!

Town Topics, Jan. 27, 1966 . . . Two boys drowned and a third barely escaped Thursday afternoon when they went through the thin ice on the Delaware-Raritan Canal near Lake Carnegie.

The drowned boys are Jacob Schlesinger, 7, son of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Schlesinger, Hibben Apartments and Steven M. Coyne, 8, son of Major and Mrs. Robert A. Coyne, Magie Apartments. The survivor is David McIntyre, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McIntyre, Hibben Apartments.

The three boys left their homes after school to skate on Lake Carnegie. After a time, they crossed the strip of land dividing the lake from the canal and went out onto the canal's thin ice. They fell into nine feet of water about 15 feet from the bank.

University grounds keepers driving their truck along the canal's tow path saw the boys in the water and threw them a rope which they had in their truck. David grasped the rope and was pulled from the water. He was rushed to his home and given first aid.

A passing motorist called Township Patrolman David Wilbur who arrived at the canal-side within three minutes. Spotting Jacob's bright red jacket in the water, he attempted to bring the boy to the surface but was unsuccessful. Patrolman Michael Kopliner found Steven and brought him out of the water.

The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, using grappling hooks mannaed from a boat, found Jacob and raised him out of the canal.

Police administered artificial respiration to both boys but without success, and they were pronounced dead at the scene at 4:55 p.m. by Mercer County medical officer Dr. Leonard Berry.

Sergeant Jack Petrone, Township police safety officer, said after the tragedy that the canal is never safe for skating, and that Lake Carnegie was not safe that afternoon. People who have lived in Princeton for some time know that the canal is never safe, but newcomers, like the Hibben-Magie apartment dwellers, may not know this.

Aware of the hazards of the canal, Sergeant Petrone went to the two faculty apartments about three weeks ago and gave a special ice-safety lecture to the children. He said that both the drowned boys had attended his illustrated talk . . .

RED FLAGS FLY WHEN THE ICE IS UNSAFE. ALSO, TUNE IN WHWH FOR ICE CONDITIONS.

SAFE AREAS TO SKATE (when white flags fly):

- Between Washington Road bridge and Harrison Street bridge.
- In front of the sailboat dock, Princeton-Kingston Road
- In front of the University crew house and Hibben Apartments, west of the Washington Road bridge.

ICE ON THE DELAWARE-RARITAN CANAL IS NEVER, NEVER SAFE!

TO SAVE YOURSELF AND OTHERS

Look for the red pointed posts at Lake Carnegie. They are equipped with 60 ft. of rope and a ring buoy.

Take the buoy, along with the attached rope, off the post. Within the limits of your own safety, get as close as you can to the person in the water. To throw the buoy, hold the buoy at your side and throw it directly along your side from back to front in a pendulum fashion. (If you scale the buoy out like a discus, it may go in any direction.) Permit the rope to feed out with the thrown buoy. Aim over and beyond the person in the water. If you miss, quickly loop the rope in and throw the buoy again.

After the person has grasped the buoy, do not pull too hard or too fast as the victim may lose his grip. A steady pull is much more effective.

HIGHWAYS

WINTER'S DIFFERENT

- Keep your distance. You need more space between you and the car ahead in case you have to make a sudden emergency stop on ice.
- The invisible speed limit — remember that half the posted limit may be too fast. Ease up if roads aren't in perfect shape.
- Oversteering on icy roads causes most skids. Anticipate lane changes and turns, make them gradually.
- Skid? If the rear end skids left, steer left. To the right, steer right.
- Temperature Traps. Ice last longer on bridges and in shady spots, so be wary. Ice at 30° is twice as slippery as it is at 0°.
- Pump Your Brakes. Pumping — hard, rapid pushes on the pedal — gives you both stopping and steering control.
- Gear To Go. If your car has stick shift, start in second gear. You'll get less force at the wheels and less spin. With automatic, use "DRIVE." Easy does it when you start to move. Don't gun it. Give tires a chance to grip.

FANCY VS. FACT

I don't need to wear a seat belt just to drive to the grocery or office.

Fact: Half of all traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of home.

I use a belt on high-speed roads. But it's a nuisance just driving around town.

Fact: Half of all injury-producing accidents occur at impact speeds of 40 mph or less.

I'm a careful driver — never had an accident. Good drivers don't need them.

Fact: Four out of five drivers in accidents never had an accident before.

"LIGHTS ON"

Every motorist is asked to help achieve traffic safety during the next six weeks by driving with beam headlights on in the daytime. This statewide campaign, announced by Attorney General Arthur J. Sills, is the result of the drop in accidents reported by the Greyhound Bus Lines, the Port of New York, and the New Jersey Labor Day campaign, all adopting a "lights on in daytime" policy.

AN IDEAL SITUATION. Here's a house in Princeton Township that's ready to move into, and it is just as cute as it can be. Living room with fireplace, separate dining room opening to screened porch, modern kitchen, two bedrooms and bath on first floor. Upstairs two more bedrooms and bath. A pine paneled recreation room in the basement. Make your New Year's resolution come true. Let us help you.

VICTORIAN CONFECTION in a fabulous Borough location.
Beautifully restored and maintained, the house has a most appealing charm and warmth. The living room, library, and dining room all have fireplaces. The kitchen and laundry give up-to-date convenience. Six large bedrooms and four full baths plus a powder room, huge basement. Truly a "find"
for a connoisseur of dignity and elegance. $70,000

A ONE OWNER HOUSE built in 1915 of the sturdiest materials of the day could appeal to almost anyone. We have particularly thought of University faculty because of the four block walk to the campus. Also there is a fine study in the house dead ended behind the living room. However, 5 bedrooms and 2 baths make this always an interesting property both for daily living and for resale. $31,500
